VARIOUS ELEVENS ON THE GRIDIRON

Navy Defeats Army and Yale and Harvard's Game Scoreless.

YESTERDAY'S GAMES SCORES

Carlisle Indians Defeated Johns Hopkins—LaFayette Won Over Lehigh Before a Crowd Estimated at 10.000.

Philadelphia, Nov. 25.—Fighting as though their country's honor rested upon the outcome, the navy met the army on the football battlefield here this afternoon and when the strife was over victory perched upon the blue and gold banner of the midshipmen from Annapolis.

Three to nothing was the score and the figures about represented the playing ability of the teams. Neither good luck nor an error contributed to the result. The Navy's three points were made by the good, right foot of Capt. "Jack" Dalton, of Broken Bow, Neb., who sent the slippery ball true between the upright posts for a goal from placement on the Army's 30-yard line.

Probably never in the games played by the sturdy men from West Point and Annapolis did two teams try harder to win. They were almost equally matched in ground gaining ability. The victory of the midshipmen was due in a measure to the generalship and maneuvering of the Navy men. It was straight hard football all the way with both teams resorting to the kicking game. There were few tricks and only two forward passes were attempted. These were tried by the Army in the last part of the game and both failed. The Army also tried two field goals, but each proved a poor attempt. Neither side during the whole game had the ball in its possession inside the opponents' 20-yard line.

The Army and Navy game with the attending great crowd of flag-bedecked enthusiasts is always a stirring spectacle, but today's annual meeting between the two teams seemed to be more brilliant than any of those heretofore held. Aside from the game, the event was a most successful social affair. From all the cities in the East came people prominent in society circles. Although President Taft and members of his family were not present, the head of the government was ably represented by Secretary of the Navy Meyer and Secretary of War Stimson.

Prominent Army and Navy officers occupied boxes, the former on the south and the latter on the north side of the field. In one of the boxes was Miss Marion Cleveland, daughter of former President Cleveland.

The military aspect always given the game by the marching onto the field of battalions of cadets and midshipmen, was stirring as usual. There were six companies of gray-coated cadets and eight companies of midshipmen in long blue coats. Marching across the field in perfect alignment to the music of their big brass bands they aroused patriotic enthusiasm, in which all thought of football was lost for the moment.

When the two teams came upon the field there did not seem to be a great difference in their weights. The players appeared to be in excellent physical condition, but the hard game soon began to tell on the men. An unusual amount of time was taken out while injured men were being patched up.

The contest, it was seen at the start, would be a close one. The Navy started right in to depend upon Dalton's kicking ability and the Navy captain often punted without trying to pierce the Army line. There was little to choose between the teams in the first period, but the midshipmen showed more power in offensive work in the second quarter when they made their three points. Getting the ball on their own 40-yard line, Nichols for the Navy made 18 yards around the end. Five more were added through the centre, and McReavy ran through the Army line to the 25-yard line. Within striking distance for the first time, the Navy did not miss the opportunity and Dalton dropped back and sent the ball sailing true over the Army goal. The ball was held for him by Gilchrist.

During the remainder of the contest the Navy played a defensive game to a large extent, Capt. Dalton constantly sending back the Army's kicks. Failing to make any progress at straight football, the Army assayed the two forward passes without success. The further the game went the harder the teams seemed to play.

Dalton, Nichols, Brown, Weems, McReavy and Rodes played star games for the Navy and were ably supported. Dalton's punting was especially good.

The most conspicuous player on the West Point side was Keyes, the fullback, who kicked well and was a tower of strength in carrying the ball. His interference, however, was not as good as it might have been and his brilliant dashes did not always gain much material ground, because of the lack of help.

REACTED SCENE OF THE KILLING

Mrs. Patterson Shows Jury Her Position When She Shot Husband.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS ASKED

Mrs. Patterson Faced by Important State Evidence—She wrote Endearing Letters to Husband Shortly Before Killing.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 25.—Crouched on one knee on the court room floor with Special Prosecutor Benson standing over her, his right arm poised for a blow—the attitude in which she had testified her husband was when she fired the shots that took his life—Gertrude Gibson Patterson today re-enacted before the jury the scenes of the moment that brought her to trial for her life. It was near the close of a long ordeal of excitement.

"And he swung his right arm for another blow?" asked the prosecutor.

"Yes," and the breath came fast, "and he looked like a demon."

"And you shot?"

"Yes, yes, I don't know how many times."

"And you shot him in the back?"

Against Mrs. Patterson's version of the shooting the State is content with the testimony of the physicians who performed the autopsy and the mute evidence of the dead man's clothes. Both show that the bullets entered the back. One went through his right shoulder, the other through his heart.

Just before Mrs. Patterson had been asked to show how the shooting had occurred, the State had placed before the jury its version of how Patterson had met his death.

"When your husband told you positively that he would not dismiss the alienation suit against Emil W. Strouss didn't you say, 'I told you Saturday that if you wouldn't I would kill you,' and didn't he start to run and didn't you shoot him in the back and while he was on his hands and knees before you crying 'Oh, my God, my God,' didn't you put the muzzle of your gun within a few inches of this coat that he was wearing and shoot him through the heart?"

As he asked the question Mr. Benson thrust almost in her face the coat her husband wore at his death, his finger on one of the powder burned spots in the back.

"No sir, no sir, that's a lie," she repeated.

Taking up the purchase of a trunk by Mrs. Patterson, on which she had caused to be imprinted the initials "G. G.", Mr. Benson inquired why she had not used her initials as a married woman.

"Because I was expecting to secure a divorce and resume my maiden name", was the reply, somewhat defiantly.

"You did this at the time you were writing endearing letters to your husband, telling him to take care of his health, that you were coming to him within a month, and declaring that you must never be separated again—not even a night from your 'soul mate'."

"Yes, Mr. Benson," still defiantly.

The prosecutor secured an admission that the defendant took a trip to Chicago in the midst of her work of preparing the Denver bungalow to which she had advised her husband he would better not come for a week or two until it was completely furnished and arranged.

"Are you aware that during your absence your husband did visit the bungalow and that he found the letter addressed to you and which in his anger he tore to pieces?"

Mr. Benson produced the letter pieced together. It was addressed to "Dearest Gertrude," and was signed "E. W. S.", the initials of Emil W. Strouss, of Chicago.

BEATTIE'S RESTING PLACE

Will Be Buried Today—Family Receives Expressions of Sympathy

Richmond, Va., Nov. 25.—Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., who paid the death penalty in the electric chair at the State Penitentiary on Friday for the murder of his wife, will be buried privately in Maury cemetery tomorrow morning at 7 o'clock. There will be a brief service at the Beattie residence before the body is removed to the cemetery. No friends of the family have been invited.

The exact time of the funeral has been kept secret and the early morning hour has been selected so that it will be concluded before the city is astir. As a precautionary measure, police will be stationed at the Beattie residence, and the cemetery, although the utmost consideration thus far has shown the family, by the public. The large number of floral offerings sent to the home today expressed the sympathy which has been felt for the father and the murderer.

Beattie's grave which was dug today, is in the family plot, close by the grave of the wife he killed.

New York, Nov. 25.—The statement of clearing house banks for the week shows that the banks hold $9,375,950 reserve in excess of legal requirements This is a decrease of $3,705,250 in the proportionate cash reserve as compared with last week.

THREATENED STRIKE CHECKED

The 8,000 Chicago Railway Shopmen Who Threatened Strike Accept Terms of Officials After Long Dispute

Chicago, Nov. 25.—The threatened strike of the 8,000 shopmen employed by the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad, was averted today when the men accepted the peace terms offered by the company, signed a new wage scale and schedules for another year.

The dispute began five months ago when the shopmen, through their local unions presented a list of 34 grievances which they demanded adjusted. As a result of a series of conferences this list of grievances was reduced to six, both sides making concessions in the interest of peace. In the six points finally in the dispute involved an increase of 2 cents an hour in wages and a change in working conditions.

The railroad officials refused these demands, declaring that general business conditions did not warrant any increase in operating expenses. The local unions, being unable to reach an agreement, appealed to the officers of the international unions who came to Chicago and yesterday presented the case to President Mudge and Vice President Melcher in a final attempt to obtain further concessions.

The labor chiefs were unsuccessful in their appeal and today sent a letter to President Mudge accepting the terms offered by the railroad in an ultimatum issued November —th.

WILL ADDRESS MEETING

"Sunshine" Hawks to Speak at Bijou Theatre This Afternon

"Sunshine" Hawks, a lyceum platform lecturer of note, will address the Y. M. C. A. meeting this afternoon at the Bijou Theatre. Mr. Hawks has been in the city for over a week holding meetings at the Immanuel Presbyterian church and has spent his time spreading sunshine throughout the city an no doubt will send his audience home this afternoon with a better and a brighter view of life. By request this meeting will be an open one, both ladies and gentlemen being invited to come. The meeting will start at 5 o'clock and close at 6 o'clock sharp.

Car Ran Into Vehicle.

The delivery wagon of Mr. C. H. Bornemann's department store, corner Seventh and Orange streets, was run into by a junction-bound street car at Fifth and Princess streets about 7:30 o'clock last night, and the front part of the vehicle was badly damaged, one wheel being badly smashed and the axle bent considerably, while the driver was thrown to the pavement, but was probably not seriously injured, though he went to his home near 13th and Dock streets. It is said that the horse attached to the vehicle balked and the driver could not get him off the track in time to get ont of the way of the car, which is reported to have been running along at a pretty lively clip.

People may appreciate a double bill when presented by a theatrical manager.

A girl with a good figure hasn't any doubt that's the way she can prove she has brains.

It seems as if the only way to make some men want to come home early at night is for their wives to be away on a visit.

MORSE TO BE PARDONED

Prisoner Seriously Ill in Atlanta Prison and Will Not be Removed at Present—Mrs. Morse Also Ill.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 25.—The condition of Charles W. Morse, the New York banker, now serving a term in the Federal prison, here is reported worse today. He will not be removed to Fort McPherson until after consultation of physicians.

Mrs. Morse Ill, but Improving.

New York, Nov. 25.—Mrs. Morse would have gone to Atlanta long ago had she been able," it was said for her at her apartments here this evening when word was conveyed here that her husband, Charles W. Morse, was reported worse and would not be removed to Fort McPherson until physicians had consulted as to his condition. "Illness has made it simply impossible for her to go, but she is improving now and will probably be able to start South the first part of next week."

Mrs. Morse has been working for a pardon ever since her husband was sent to prison. She is overjoyed at the prospects of his near freedom, but is known to be deeply worried over advices which have reached her as to his condition.

Conflicting Reports.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 25.—Conflicting reports relative to the condition of Charles W. Morse, the New York banker, who upon instructions from the Attorney General's office, will be transferred from the Federal prison tomorrow to the army hospital at Fort McPherson this afternoon, caused Warden W. M. Moyer, of the prison, to issue the following statement.

"Morse is suffering from Bright's disease. A few weeks ago he was very seriously ill. His condition has lately somewhat improved and is now not critical. He will be removed to the hospital at Fort McPherson Sunday morning."

ONSLOW COUNTY TEACHERS

Held Interesting and profitable Meeting at Jacksonville Yesterday

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Jacksonville, N. C., Nov. 25.—Saturday being the last Saturday in November, was the appointed day for the meeting of the Onslow County Teachers' Association. Nothwithstanding the disagreeable weather the teachers turned out in full force.

President Lay called the meeting to order at 11.30 A. M., and called on Rev. Mr. Wood, of the Presbyterian church, to open the meeting with devotional exercises. Mr. Lay then expressed an appreciation of the effort the teachers had made to be present despite the cold weather. He said that it must be a high ideal of service that influences the teachers to form and maintain an organization for the purpose of increasing their efficiency. The world seems to manifest less appreciation of the teachers, the trainers or human beings whose lives are to be everlasting—that it does of almost any other kind of employment. Dog and horse trainers receive better pay for their services than does the average teacher.

Superintendent Thompson made seevral interesting announcements and recommendations regarding the work in the county. At this time the regular programme previously arranged for the meeting was taken up. Superintenedent Thompson discussed the lessons to be gathered from the first sixty pages of the text, 'How to Study," this being the part of the text that had been assigned for preparation. The principle thought to be gotten from this lesson is the value and necessity of the provision for "Specific Purposes" of study.

Next Miss Hattie Blackmon conducted "A Discussion of Phonics." She dealt with the means of exciting the interest of the child in gathering the elemental sounds or similes of sound; and then of the application of these to words in common use.

The next meeting will be held Saturday, January 6th, 1912.

SAMUEL GOMPERS RE-ELECTED

American Federation of Labor Adjourned Last Night—Old Officers Re-elected—Rochester, N. Y., Next Meeting.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 25.—After selecting Rochester, N. Y., as the place for holding the convention in 1912, re-electing for next year all the old officers and adopting without amendment the reports of several committee, the 31st annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, which began here two weeks ago, adjourned tonight.

Rochester was chosen as the place for the next convention over Seattle, Wash., and Richmond, Va., after a good natured, but spirited contest, Rochester receiving 8,028 votes; Seattle 5,554 and Richmond 2,210.

The expected fight on the re-election of President Samuel Gompers failed to materialize and all of the old officers were re-elected without opposition.

Most of the day was devoted to the reading of committee reports and the discussion of factional differences which have rent several of the crafts in the Federation for years. By far the most serious controversy and one which, it is believed, has been amicably adjusted, was that between the United Brotherhood of Carpenters, with 200,000 members, and the sheet metal workers, the adjustment committee recommended that the carpenters be reinstated, and the recommendation was unanimously adopted by the convention.

Among the resolutions adopted were those condemning working conditions found to have existed in the plant of the Triangle Waist Company, in New York, which was destroyed by fire several months ago, entailing the loss of 150 lives, urging an investigation of the boy scout movement to determine its influence and effect upon labor, recommending the abrogation of the treaty between the United States and Russia governing the issuance of passports and providing for the setting aside of a day in January when benefit performances will be given in theatres throughout the country by members of the White Rat Actors' Union of America, the proceeds of which will go to the McNamara defense fund.

The Building Trades Department of the Federation will convene Monday for a ten days' session.

ADJOURNS TILL JANUARY

Inter-State Commerce Commission Delays Further Investigation

New York, Nov. 25.—Adjournment of the sitting of the Inter-State Commerce Commission here for inquiry into the express business of the country, was taken late today until the last week in January. Commissioner Lane requested the express companies and the complaining shippers to submit whatever further data they have by December 15th. H. C. Barlow, traffic manager of the Chicago Association of Commerce, declared that the time of delivery between Chicago, St. Paul and Omaha had recently been extended to three dull days and caused even counsel for the express companies to smile when he sarcastically suggested that the express companies had something to do with this extension, as after more than 20 years of two-day deliveries three three-days are now required. He urgently directed the attention of the commission to the very close inter-corporate interest of the express companies.

Would Abandon Manchu Dynasty

Paris, Nov. 25.—The correspondent at Peking of the Temps, in a telegram received here today, says that Yuan Shi Kai seems resolved to abandon the Manchu dynasty and is trying to point out to the Imperial family the necessity of surrender. The regent, feeling that such a course will be the end, is resisting desperately, the correspondent adds, but the situation cannot long endure.

BISHOP DOUBTED WISDOM OF ACTION

Methodist Conference Declined to Recommend Officers, Anti-Saloon League.

A POLITICAL ORGANIZATION?

Feature of Sessions at Kinston, N. C., Yesterday—Meet at Fayetteville Next Year—Impressive Services Today

(By Mamie Bays).

Kinston, N. C., Nov. 25.—The announcement was made by Bishop Hoss at the morning session of the North Carolina Conference today that the Conference would adjourn Monday morning. Two sessions of the Conference were held today.

It is probable that for the first time in the history of this Conference, the presiding Bishop today spoke to a question that was under debate on the floor of the Conference. A large part of the session this morning was occupied with the discussion of one recommendation in the report of the committee on temperance. This recommendation was to the effect that the Conference recommend the appointment of two preachers and two laymen of the Conference as members of the executive committee of the Anti-saloon League, and recommended the appointment of R. L. Davis, as superintendent of the North Carolina Anti-saloon League.

M. T. Plyler offered an amendment that that part of the recommendation with reference to members of the executive committee of the Antisaloon League be stricken out and after a lengthy discussion, the amendment prevailed, the opinion of the majority of the Conference being that the Conference should not identify itself to that extent with a political organization.

During the discussion, Bishop Hoss said that he did not know whether the Conference would permit a word from the chair. Consent being given Bishop Hoss said that he had ben a prohibitionist since his early boyhood; that he was a member of the Tennessee Anti-saloon League and was glad of the fact. 'The Anti-saloon League, however, is a political organization," said he, "I know that I belong to it and I glory in the work it is doing. I did not surrender my citizensnip when I became a Methodist or a preacher. The Anti-saloon League is doing a splendid work, but I doubt the wisdom of action upon the part of the Conference in recommending members of this body for membership in the executive committee of a political organization."

The amendment carried at once but did not effect the recommendation of Mr. Davis to the position which he has held for several years as superintendent of the North Carolina Anti-saloon League. Bishop Hoss stated that in his opinion State prohibition laws are enforced more satisfactorily in North Carolina than in any State in the Union. The Conference with a rising vote endorsed the work of the Anti-saloon League.

Ex-Governor T. J. Jarvis addressed the Conference on the subject of the importance of a representative church in Washington City. Fayetteville, Wilmington and Henderson were placed in nomination as the place for holding the next session of the conference and Fayetteville was selected. The Conference met last in Fayetteville in 1902.

A message of fraternal greeting was ordered transmitted to the North Carolina Methodist Protestant Conference, in session this week at Henderson, and the Bishop expressed the hope that the relations of the two branches of the Church would become more closely identified and he hoped for the growth of more cordial relations between the ministry of the two denominations in future.

Rev. J. N. Cole presented the report of the committee on the representative church to be built at Washington, recommending that this Conference contribute $5,000 to the building fund within the next four years, and it was adopted. Great interest was manifested in the proposed M. E. Church, South, "representative church," at the National capital.

Sunday of Conference week is always a great day with the preachers and a remarkably fine programme has been arranged for tomorrow's services in the host church. All the other pulpits in Kinston and many nearby towns will also be filled by delegates to this Conference tomorrow.

During the past year the Conference has contributed to foreign missions $16,500, to home missions, $14-500 and to special missions more than $4,000, giving a total of more than $40,000 and several thousand dollars more than the total assessment for missions.

Dr. Moore laid special emphasis in his address this evening upon the importance of missions in general and made a special plea for mission work in the home field; work among the rich as well as the poor; work among factory owners as well as factory operatives and among the men who make the slums possible as well as those who live in the slums.

The entertainment which the Conference is receiving in Kinston is characterized by the highest type of hospitality. The members of the Conference have so held and this fact has been emphasized by the hospitable entertainment enjoyed.

Rev. F. S. Love, the Conference host, is one of the younger members of the Conference, being yet an undergraduate, but the excellent manner in which he has planned and directed the many details relative to the convenience and comfort of a large conference could hardly be excelled by a man who might be a veteran in such service. The spirit which he exhibits as conference host adds much to the pleasure of the Conference.

Very frequently ministers from other denominations are received into the Conference of the Methodist Church and the case with which these in many instances adapt themselves to the ecdnomy of this church and the success which crowns their work is another evidence that the spirit of Christian fellowship is growing more and more into the closest bond of oneness. During the Conference held two years ago in Raleigh, Rev. Geo. S. Bearden was received from the Evangelical Lutheran Church, in which he had been a minister for several years. His work in this Conference has been successful from the beginning and his report as pastor at Edenton, submitted during this session, was excellent.

The members of an annual conference always anticipate with genuine interest the services to be held on the Sunday included in Conference week. Large numbers of visitors increase the attendance on that day and usually the day is very full, including not less than four services in the Conference church. The day begins with the Conference Love Feast, which through all the decades of Methodism, has retained peculiar significance to the Methodist preacher and the Conference Love Feast, although a service of the greatest simplicity, never fails to attract the members of the Conference and visitors in large numbers, usually filling the church long before the hour has arrived for the service to begin. During recent years these services are rarely held except during the annual conferences, but they have lost none of their significance to the preachers who are veterans in the service of the Church and who recall the time when the Methodist Love Feast and the Methodist experience meeting constituted important services of the church.

REBELS CAPTURE IMPORTANT FORT

Most Important Fort Outside Nanking Surrendered by Imperialists.

TROOPS SURROUND NANKING

Entire City at Mercy of Bombarders —Communication Cut Off—Urged That Foreigners Be Respected

Nanking, Nov. 25. (3:45 P. M.)—The forts adjacent to the Tiger Hill surrendered yesterday to the Revolutionists without fighting. Purple Hill, where General Chang is entrenched with the Imperial forces, was invested during the evening and at nightfall 13,000 troops surrounded Nanking. They are awaiting the arrival of the gunboats, which probably will be the signal for a general attack.

Imperialists Surrender

Shanghai, Nov. 25.—A brief message was received here today by wireless from Nanking announcing the capture of the Tiger Hill fort by the Republican army and the surrender of the Imeprialist defenders. Tiger Hill is the most important fort outside Nanking. It is well fortified and contains big guns which menaced the approach of the Rebel fleet and commands the lower section of the city. Lion Hill fort at the lower end of the town is within the wall. This important victory and the surrender of the Imperialist soldiers indicates the desperate position of General Chang, commander of the Imperialist troops. With the attacking force occupying Purple Hill to the southwest, the entire city now is at mercy of the bombarders. Communication with Nanking is only possible by wireless, which service is deficient.

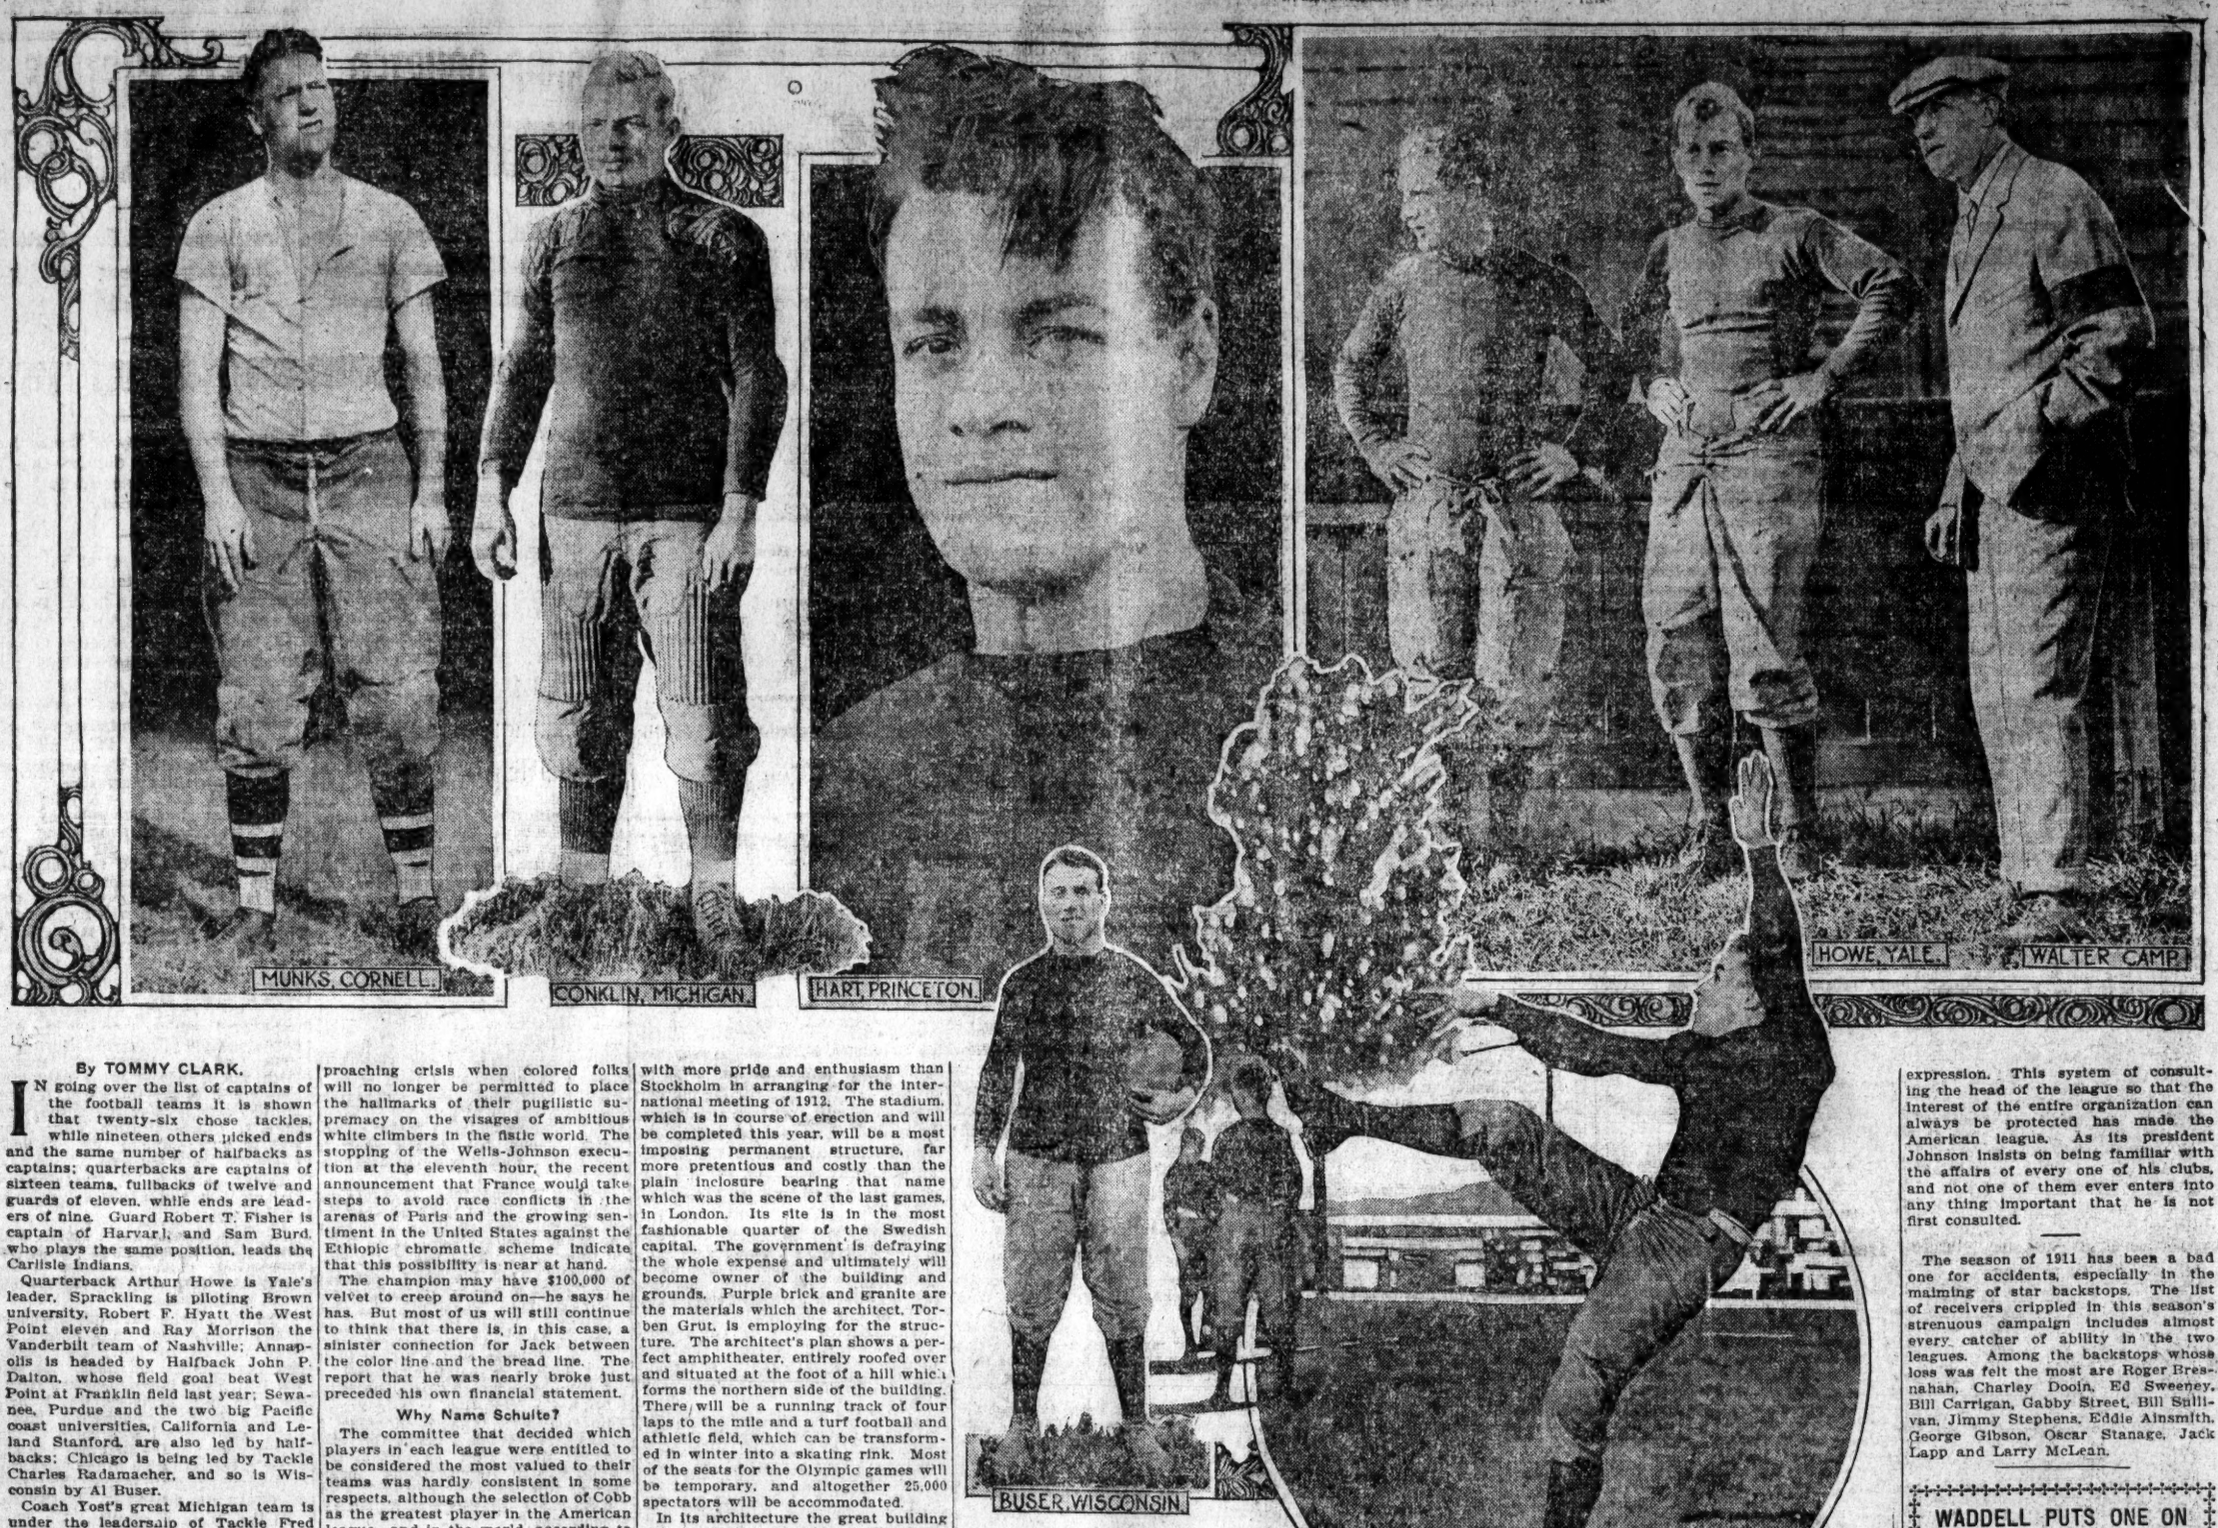
Telegrams from Wu Chang report the complete rout of the Imperialists at Hankow.

Wireless reports say there was heavy fighting with great losses on both sides. There is reason to believe, however, that the reports are much exaggerated.

The Rev. John W. Hill, president of the International Police Forum, arrived at Shanghai today from Japan and was heartily welcomed. He saw Wu Ting Fang, former Chinese representative at Washington, who is now allied with the Revolutionary movement, and received assurances of the determination of the Reformers to advance a United China to the forefront of the nations and to respect the rights of foreigners especially, Americans.

At Dr. Hill's suggestion, Wu Ting Fang wrote to General Li Yuen Hang, commander-in-chief of the rebels at Wu Chang, requesting that a proclamation be issued and circulated throughout the country urging that foreigners be respected and unharmed.

CAPTAINS OF SOME OF THE EASTERN AND WESTERN FOOTBALL ELEVENS



Photos by American Press Association.

By TOMMY CLARK.

IN going over the list of captains of the football teams it is shown that twenty-six chose tackles, while nineteen others picked ends and the same number of halfbacks as captains; quarterbacks are captains of sixteen teams, fullbacks of twelve and guards of eleven, while ends are leaders of nine. Guard Robert T. Fisher is captain of Harvard, and Sam Burd, who plays the same position, leads the Carlisle Indians.

Quarterback Arthur Howe is Yale's leader. Sprackling is piloting Brown university, Robert F. Hyatt the West Point eleven and Ray Morrison the Vanderbilt team of Nashville; Annapolis is headed by Halfback John P. Dalton, whose field goal beat West Point at Franklin field last year; Sewanee, Purdue and the two big Pacific coast universities, California and Leland Stanford, are also led by halfbacks; Chicago is being led by Tackle Charles Radamacher, and so is Wisconsin by Al Buser.

Coach Yost's great Michigan team is under the leadership of Tackle Fred Conklin, Jr.; Cornell, too, has Tackle William E. Munk as field leader.

Princeton re-elected its great fullback, Eddie Hart, while the Red and Blue of Pennsylvania has a dashing general in Eugene Le Roy Mercer, one of the best fullbacks ever developed by Coach Mike Murphy. Minnesota has End Earl Pickering as captain, while Holy Cross has William P. Joy. Dartmouth's captain, Edward J. Dailey, occupies a like position.

And Chickens Roost High.

Mr. John Awtha Johnson must "view with alarm" the deplorable but approaching crisis when colored folks will no longer be permitted to place the hallmarks of their pugilistic supremacy on the visages of ambitious white climbers in the fistic world. The stopping of the Wells-Johnson execution at the eleventh hour, the recent announcement that France would take steps to avoid race conflicts in the arenas of Paris and the growing sentiment in the United States against the Ethiopic chromatic scheme indicate that this possibility is near at hand.

The champion may have $100,000 of velvet to creep around on—he says he has. But most of us will still continue to think that there is, in this case, a sinister connection for Jack between the color line and the bread line. The report that he was nearly broke just preceded his own financial statement.

Why Name Schulte?

The committee that decided which players in each league were entitled to be considered the most valued to their teams was hardly consistent in some respects, although the selection of Cobb as the greatest player in the American league—and in the world, according to points scored—is, beyond cavil, correct.

The committee undertook a delicate proposition—which was to include pitchers in the consideration. In fact, Ed Walsh was given the second high total on point valuation in either league, with a percentage of .547. This places the big spitball artist higher than Frank Schulte, who gets the auto in the National league.

None of the cities which have entertained the athletes of the world competing in the Olympic games has gone with more pride and enthusiasm than Stockholm in arranging for the international meeting of 1912. The stadium, which is in course of erection and will be completed this year, will be a most imposing permanent structure, far more pretentious and costly than the plain inclosure bearing that name which was the scene of the last games, in London. Its site is in the most fashionable quarter of the Swedish capital. The government is defraying the whole expense and ultimately will become owner of the building and grounds. Purple brick and granite are the materials which the architect, Torben Grut, is employing for the structure. The architect's plan shows a perfect amphitheater, entirely roofed over and situated at the foot of a hill which forms the northern side of the building. There will be a running track of four laps to the mile and a turf football and athletic field, which can be transformed in winter into a skating rink. Most of the seats for the Olympic games will be temporary, and altogether 25,000 spectators will be accommodated.

In its architecture the great building will be a fine example of mediaeval Swedish art. The gates and arcades are vaulted, blocks of granite are inlaid on the brick walls with a series of sculptured Swedish heroes, and eighteen gods and goddesses will decorate the gates to the entrance stairs. Two massive brick towers surmount the eastern and western gates, and behind them are buildings containing large assembly halls. At the center of the northern arcade is a handsome gate, through which all the competitors will march into the arena on the first day of the games. Opposite this stands the royal box, surmounted by a golden canopy. Now is the time to subscribe to the fund here to send a winning team abroad.

One of the principal reasons for the success the American league has attained is the fact that the eight clubs always work in unison. No move is ever made that the league is not consulted. Ban Johnson's wishes are never ignored. The Washington club does not differ in this respect from any of the others in the league, and yet because it follows the unwritten law to consult the head of the league in all matters of importance the impression has been created that the league has a financial interest in the Senators.

There is no club in the league independent of it. The club owner who goes along on his own hook in matters in which the league has an interest finds himself "in bad," to use a slang expression. This system of consulting the head of the league so that the interest of the entire organization can always be protected has made the American league. As its president Johnson insists on being familiar with the affairs of every one of his clubs, and not one of them ever enters into any thing important that he is not first consulted.

The season of 1911 has been a bad one for accidents, especially in the maiming of star backstops. The list of receivers crippled in this season's strenuous campaign includes almost every catcher of ability in the two leagues. Among the backstops whose loss was felt the most are Roger Bresnahan, Charley Dooin, Ed Sweeney, Bill Carrigan, Gabby Street, Bill Sullivan, Jimmy Stephens, Eddie Ainsmith, George Gibson, Oscar Stanage, Jack Lapp and Larry McLean.

WADDELL PUTS ONE ON FANS.

Rube Waddell has a poor opinion of the fighting spirit of the Toledo fan. He was told that a fan in that city had assaulted Umpire Gerald Hayes on a street car, but said he didn't believe it.

"Nothin' like that could come off in that town," said Mr. Waddell. "What it was, was probably some guy doin' a canner's rush out of the car to a nearby wettery where he'd spotted a biggest-in-the-town-for-5-cents sign and just accidentally beaned Gerald with his elbow in his hurry.

"Fight in that town?" queried Mr. Waddell. "Why, they haven't got the heart and courage in that town to stick a fish-worm on the hook. They tie 'em on with silk cord for fear the worm will bite 'em. As for mobbin' umpires, why, the next time they get fresh when I'm in town I'm going to take a whisk broom and chase 'em all out of the back end of the grand stand."

It being a thirty foot drop to the ground from the back of that grand stand Mr. Waddell's threat seems dire indeed.

HARD POINT TO DECIDE.

Bases full, does the batter who receives a base on balls have to touch first base in order to force a run across the plate? Umpires are debating the question.

OLYMPIC GAME DATES.

Johnny Kilbane Latest Pugilistic Find

YOUTHFUL Johnny Kilbane, who weighs about as much as a well developed crawdad, looms up not only strong as a candidate for Johnny Coulon's honors, but he also means to prove a thorn in the side of Abe Attell. In other words, Kilbane is going to set sail for the bantamweight and featherweight honors at the same time.

The frail looking little Clevelander says that he can fight at 116 pounds. That means that he is eligible to battle for the midget honors. As he already has fought Abe Attell there is no doubt about his being willing to contend for the title with any of the feathers.

When Johnny Kilbane fought Abe Attell a year ago no one thought for a minute that he would ever develop into a knockout fighter. He was about the most unathletic looking figure that ever graced the ring. Johnny measured about twenty-six inches around the chest, and his arms resembled bean stalks. But, my, how he could move around the ring! He made Abe Attell chase fully fifteen miles during the ten rounds, and, at that, Johnny was landing three blows to Able's one.

The decision went to the champion, but he didn't have anything to spare. The referee favored the champion simply because he was the aggressor. Kilbane carried a lightning left and a snappy little right hand hook that kept Attell's head flying back continually during the ten acts. He landed often enough to whip a dozen boys.

Now comes this same skinny looking kid in the role of a knocker out. It was Kilbane who dropped the highly touted Jose Rivers for the full count in sixteen rounds in Los Angeles recently, and a few weeks later he gave Frankie Conley a decisive beating. Kilbane didn't knock out the Italian, but the gong saved Frankie on several occasions. Now Kilbane intends to sweep the boards. He looks good. Of course there are a number of tough hurdles before the Clevelander. Abe Attell is there with bells, and Tommy Dixon says that he is willing to tackle the Cleveland midget at 122 pounds ringside.

PAST RECORDS OF BIG EASTERN ELEVENS

THE following table shows the results of eleven years' campaign on the gridiron by the four large universities in the east and gives Yale the place of honor as to percentage of victories. Yale also has to her credit the fact that the total scores against her teams are far lower than those against any other member of the selected class. The figures are taken from the Yale News:

	Won.	Lost.	Tied.	P.C.	Points.	Oppo-nent.
Yale	102	6	8	.944	2,343	153
Harvard	98	14	4	.875	1,764	366
Princeton	81	15	6	.843	1,913	292
Penn	107	16	9	.820	2,411	468

Under the old rules Yale's best eleven was the one which took championship honors in 1900. The Blue won the twelve games played, totals for the season reaching 324 to 5. The five points were made as the result of a goal from the field by Mattis of Princeton. The final score of this game was 29 to 5. With the old rules in force Harvard's best season was in 1901, when the team played eleven games and won them all. This team scored 238 points against its opponents' 24.

Penn has won more games than her rivals, but has lost a greater number. Penn has not played Yale since 1894, Princeton since 1905, and the last game with Harvard was in 1905. The Quakers won 12 to 6. Although the football relations between the three big universities and Penn have been strained, there is a possibility of the Red and Blue meeting Harvard next season.

BILLY SULLIVAN DISPUTES RECORD

Peeved because he has been slighted a bit by the statisticians in compiling figures of the old timers in baseball Billy Sullivan of the Chicago White Sox is out with the statement that he has caught more games than any other man in the business.

Sullivan claims that he has been behind the bat in exactly 1,100 battles on the diamond.

Further than this, Sullivan submits the figures to show that he is telling the truth about it and points out that the baseball guides will show the accuracy of his figures. They are as follows:

Year.	Games.
1899	31
1900	64
1901	99
1902	77
1903	32
1904	103
1905	98
1906	118
1907	112
1908	137
1909	97
1910	43
1911	87
Total	1,100

The argument came up because of an article in which it was stated that Johnny Kling and Charley Dooin are fighting it out to see which of them will be the first to catch his one thousandth game.

Sullivan says that in one year he suffered from an attack of appendicitis and caught a few games, and another season he broke a foot, which spoiled a record of 1,200 games for him.

Game Men Sometimes Lose Their Nerve

"THERE are times," says Billy Evans, veteran wrestler, "when the gamest man on earth may lose his nerve. I don't believe in branding any fellow yellow unless he has shown conclusively on more than one occasion that he is really a coward at heart. About twenty years ago there was a Kansas City boxer named 'Cocky' Delougherty, who put up some awful good scraps between the ropes. He was one of your determined sluggers who didn't know what quit meant, weighed 138 pounds and would fight any one near his size on the top of the earth. As a sample of his gameness I can do no better than mention a battle in which he took part with Jimmy Weedy just outside Kansas City. The late Jim Whitfield was referee. Weedy was a lot cleverer than Mike, and in the tenth round Weedy's cutting lefts had completely closed his man's eyes. You must remember they were fighting with the small gloves, not the pillows used nowadays. Mr. Whitfield wanted to stop the bout when he saw the shape Delougherty was in, but Mike wouldn't hear of such a thing. He made his seconds lance his eyes, and as soon as his lamps were open he went in again, fiercer than ever, and won in the twenty-eighth round.

"About a year after Delougherty's fight with Weedy I had him in hand for awhile. There was a wrestler named Bernard MacFadden, the same who is now running a physical culture school, and he wanted to try his hand at the boxing game. I was quite willing to take him on for 'Cocky,' knowing as I did that gents of his kind are always helpless slobs with the mitts. So I fixed up a bout for MacFadden and Delougherty, ten rounds, to take place at St. Joe. Delougherty had never seen MacFadden either in his street clothes or out of them. I had made the match and wired 'Cocky' to come on from Kansas City, which he did, arriving the night set for the bout. MacFadden wasn't very much either in the fighting or wrestling line, but he was a sure enough looking Hercules when he stripped. Big chunks of muscle stuck out all over him and rippled like writhing snakes under his skin when he stood with his arms over his head, moving to and fro in those breathing exercises that he practiced. He was going through just such stunts in his dressing room a few minutes before it was time for him to make his appearance in the ring. As luck would have it 'Cocky' and myself had to pass MacFadden's room on our way to the quarters set aside for Delougherty. So 'Cocky' got a slant at this wide shouldered, great muscled guy, standing erect and making his sinews show out like iron bars.

"'Say,' said 'Cocky,' punching me in the ribs, 'who is that chap?'

"'Oh, him,' says I. 'That's only a punk wrestler who imagines he can fight. That's Barney MacFadden, the fellow you're to the cards to beat up tonight. He's easy money, boy, in spite of all them big muggles.'

"'So that's MacFadden, eh?' says 'Cocky,' kind of thoughtful. 'Just wait here till I come back, Bill. I'm goin' out a minute.'

"I didn't suspect anything, so I waited. I could have been waiting yet if I had stayed around there in the hopes of seeing 'Cocky' again. For he never came back. The fact of the matter was that the sight of MacFadden's muscles had thrown a scare into him, and he didn't do a thing but grab his valise and get the first train he could reach out of St. Joseph. That was all there was to it. The club officials hopped me because I couldn't produce my man, but it sure wasn't my fault. They had to call off the fight and let it go at that. Now to show you that Delougherty wasn't a coward I may say that he fought several good fights after the MacFadden affair, one of them being with Oscar Gardner, and never was he accused of being otherwise than dead game. Why he ran out on that particular occasion will be a puzzle to me to the end of my days."

KID M'COY NOT ALL IN

KID M'COY has shown the followers of boxing that by keeping in fairly good condition a boxer can last much longer than one who neglects his training and after getting rusty and stiffened up attempts to "comeback," a thing which is now considered almost impossible.

McCoy cannot be credited with coming back, for he has never allowed himself to get altogether out of shape. He has done considerable boxing and by other exercises has kept himself nearly on edge. But the defeating of two or three "dubs" by McCoy is not due so much to the latter's physical superiority as it is to his knowledge of the art of boxing.

When in his prime McCoy ranked with Jim Corbett, Tommy Ryan and other great masters of the art, and he has retained considerable of that knowledge. He still has strength enough to hit a hard blow, and no man in the ring was ever better posted on the right place to land a punch in order to do great damage. McCoy, of all things, was one of the coolest men who ever put on a glove.

It was almost impossible to get his nerve at any stage of a contest. He could wait one round or twenty for a chance to get in a punch on a vital spot, and when it got there it was timed so well and placed so effectively that it meant the downfall of the man it landed on. The men who are competing in the light heavyweight class today are, for the most part, rough and tumble sluggers, who are not to be classed with McCoy as boxers.

If his wind is good, all that the Kid has to do is to take his time with them and keep out of danger till they give him an opening for a decisive punch, and the opening is sure to come if he waits long enough. His victory over Jim Savage recently in New York seemed to surprise certain followers of the sport, but there was nothing so very surprising in the result of the match to any one who knew the two men.

HEAD SLIDERS VERY SCARCE.

In former years head first slides were common, now it is a rarity to see a player go into a bag any way but feet first. Of the two the head first slide is by far the more spectacular. Players when they adopted this system could slide as much as fifteen or twenty feet, while the feet first slide makes this impossible. Of course the fall away slide was impossible to accomplish head first. With the feet going toward the bag it is much easier to avoid the ball. It is because of this fact that the players adopted this style.

THE WEEK'S NEWS IN ROBESON

Seems No Disposition on Part of Some to Gather Crops—Shipping Holiday Greens—Fifteen Weeks of Court

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., Nov. 25.—Cotton continues to arrive here from the surrounding country in large quantities. It is no wonder many of the fields are still white with the staple when the fact is considered that such an enormous crop was raised and labor so hard to get. And while many farmers are using all available means at their command to gather the crop there are those who do not seem to care. Every day or two mules are brought in which were mortgaged to make a crop with, and in some instances it is said the mules could have been paid for if the crops had been gathered.

There arrived here this week over the V. & C. S., a carload of boxes, knocked down, which we are told are to be used for shipping holly and mistletoe to the Northern markets for Christmas decorations. It is to be hoped that our people will not allow the holly and mistletoe to be exterminated from this section. In a few years if the thing keeps on there won't be enough bushes of any kind left growing to supply school teachers with the necessary switches.

County Road Superintendent Hughes is arranging to give the chaingang a Thanksgiving dinner, which will consist of turkey, barbecued pigs and other good things to eat. Mr. Hughes is a small man in size, but has a heart large enough for four men.

"The Thief" company filled its engagement at the Opera House last night, playing to a fair-sized audience. With favorable weather the house would have been crowded. To say that the audience was well pleased is to express it too mildly. Regular theatre-goers who have seen many good shows here declared "The Thief" the best that had ever appeared in Lumberton. The cast is an unusually strong one and all who have the opportunity should see the play. The next attraction here will be the Daniel Boone Company on Tuesday, December 5th. The company carries Indians and a pack of wolves, the leading woman being a highly educated Indian Princess. The company comes well recommended and the highest price charged being 75 cents, it should play to large business.

The town clock has actually been doctored and is again telling the hour of the day and night, provided one looks at it. The striking apparatus must have been badly diseased as parts of it had to be sent to the factory to be duplicated. They lay out in the weather too much, perhaps.

Mr. Robert Lamb, who was engaged in beautifying the Court House yard, has completed his work and returned to his home at Fayetteville. Mr. Lamb has done a good job and when the grass which has been planted comes up and gives the square a coat of green it will certainly be good to look at.

Our item last Sunday seems to have had the desired effect at the union station as one light as actually appeared on the dark side of the station. But two more are needed and it is hoped they will be forthcoming.

The local market now seems to be well supplied with pork and sweet potatoes. Some class to those two necessaries of life.

During the past day or two we have heard the opinion expressed that it would be a mighty good idea for this country to send to Brazil, Mexico or Africa for a few missionaries to try to convert some of the neathen right here at home. The Britt case reported from Back Swamp would make the heathen hide their faces in shame. We have as good ministers here as anywhere but they would be throwing away valuable time trying to talk to some of our home-made heathens.

Lest we forget, the two-weeks' term of civil court will convene here Monday, December 4th. This will make about fifteen weeks held during 1911. There are now no less than 15 prisoners awaiting for court, but there'll be nothing doing for them until February when the first court to be held in this county for 1912 will convene.

We heard Mr. A. W. McLean make the statement this week that judging from what he had seen he thought there was now at least 25 to 33 1-3 per cent. of the cotton crop in this county still in the fields and little effort being made to gather it. Mr. McLean is a very conservative man and no one who has traveled over the country will for a moment doubt his estimate.

Mr. W. S. Cobb showed your correspondent a letter this week from a lady away out in the Northwest, making inquiry about the price of farm lands in this section. She stated that she was a Southern lady and desired to return to the South, her husband having agreed to come if they could find a suitable location. Plenty of room right here in Robeson for good people who will come and work, but money don't grow on trees here.

Thursday morning's Star arrived yesterday morning, just 24 hours late. A new postal clerk was on the run and naturally got things mixed up to some extent. When The Star fails to arrive on time a large number of people are really disappointed.

Among the many turkeys that are being brought to market the past few days, are some of the largest we have seen in a long time, but the prices are so high that many people are almost afraid to ask them. Some people seem to think such things raised by them are a little better than if other people raised them. Think of a person wanting to exchange a turkey gobbler for a barrel of flour.

We have seen many women dip snuff, some chew tobacco and we have seen a few old ladies smoke the pipe. We know of two or three men now who carry in their pockets their snuff box, and occasionally they proceed to eat some snuff. But we saw the limit 'busted' yesterday when we observed a woman, possibly 35 years old, on the street smoking a clay pipe. She was raising a fog and seemed to enjoy it.

Yesterday forenoon there was considerable rain here, clearing up late in the afternoon. If the streets ever got in a worse condition in the same length of time we were not here.

We were delighted yesterday to meet our old friend, Joe Salloss, of New York. Joe was a resident of Lumberton 25 years ago, and still has many friends here who are always delighted to see him.

If reports be true, the Big Swamp, a few miles east of Lumberton, must be run over with squirrels. We heard of one man being seen with as a few days ago and he was still after more. We agree most heartily with The Robesonian in regard to the game law. Unless something is done, in a very few years birds will be as scarce in this county as ravens.

Mr. J. Q. Beckwith, of the V. & C. S., returned yesterday from Wilmington, where he went to attend the funeral of Mr. Spencer LeGrand.

The Seaboard will sell round-trip tickets to Norfolk Thanksgiving for $5, and to Savannah and return for $7.30. Either is cheaper than staying at home.

A young couple, evidently a bride and groom from somewhere, attracted considerable attention yesterday forenoon by taking in the sights of town during the rain without an umbrella, the bride holding on to the groom's arm, indicating by her action that she was afraid he would get lost.

The chairs ordered some time ago for the new motion picture show have arrived and been placed in the little show house next to the postoffice. Lumberton now has a ground-floor picture show like one sees in the cities. The show is running regularly beginning every evening about 4:30 or 5 o'clock, just as soon as the electric current is turned on at the power plant.

At the conclusion of service tomorrow morning at the Presbyterian church a congregational meeting will be held at which officers will be lected.

Capt. J. M. Wells, of the Salvation Army of Charlotte, will preach at the Methodist church tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, at the Presbyterian church at 4 P. M. and at the Gospel Tabernacle in the evening.

This was one of the coldest mornings of the season thus far, the ground being frozen and ice plentiful.

We saw a check this week for $5,023, payable to the widow of the late Mr. H. B. Ward, of Rowland, who died in October. Mr. Sandy Barker secured Mr. Ward's application for the insurance last March, and Mrs. Ward knew nothing of it until Mr. Barker went to deliver the check. The promptness with which the claim was settled speaks well for Mr. Barker.

Mr. A. T. Parmele, who has been confined at his home for several days on account of sickness was able to sit up for awhile today.

Rev. Ira E. Wishart and bride arrived the first of the week from Louisville, Ky., to spend some time with relatives and friends. Mr. Wishart is a son of Mr. A. S. Wishart, of Lumberton.

A man who knows how to admire her hat seems to a girl to have lots more brains than one who only knows how to run a railroad.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

At The Bijou.

Before whopping sized audiences, that were also just as immense for delight, the Bijou last night brought another glorious week to a close, and is ready to start another on time and in humming manner tomorrow. This week the Bijou has what the management claims will be the biggest and greatest collection of films, together with the brightest gems in the music line, ever presented in Wilmington. The Bijou is also decidedly attractive as it is always comfortable, being warm and cozy, and at the same time freely ventilated. It is ventilated by nature itself. Three reels jammed with the latest and most expensive films will be offered tomorrow, together with a new and snappy musical programme. One of the most interesting and stirring photoplays ever offered will be that of "In the Days of Gold," which deals with the fever for the yellow metal in old California and the fighting of the Indians. A thrilling rescue from burning at the stake is one of the chief scenes. Another film masterpiece for tomorrow is "Somebody's Mother." It is a film that throbs with pathos and tenderness, though it has a happy and beautiful climax. It is a film of everyday human emotion, and it is superb.

At The Grand.

Last night closed one of the most brilliant weeks in the history of The Grand Theatre and best of all the Wilmington public seemed to appreciate the efforts of the management to please. Extra big bills were offered at each performance and pains were taken to see that everyone was comfortable after reaching the house. This week, it is the purpose of the management to even excel the record of the past week if such is possible. Beginning tomorrow a big Selig production will head the bill, a humorous Western comedy-drama, "Little Injun". Then there will be still another Selig with the pungent atmosphere of the West. It will be "Western Hearts", in which is shown one of the most thrilling rides ever recorded on a moving picture film. In connection with these two, there will be still two other good reels and Mr. Morgan will sing the beautiful ballad, "When the Golden Leaves Are Falling." Then there will be music by the orchestra and all told Grand patrons will receive for their money more than was ever offered in a vaudeville theatre in Wilmington.

RETAIL MERCHANTS TO MEET.

Session Tuesday Night Will be Preceded by Supper.

Preceded by a supper which will begin promptly at 8 o'clock in the banquet room of the Masonic Temple, a meeting of the Wilmington Retail Merchants' Association will be held Tuesday night. It will be one of the most interesting in some time, owing to a fine programme of addresses, etc., arranged and a large attendance of the members is expected. One of the features will be an address by Mr. Chas. N. Evans, president of the Southern National Bank, and one of Wilmington's leading citizens, whose subject will be "practical Suggestions on Basing and Obtaining Credit." Mr. E. H. Munson, who was a delegate from the local association to the last annual meeting of the State association, will make a talk along the line of what is being accomplished as well as planned by the State association, with which all the local associations are affiliated. There will also be remarks by President A. M. Hall, Vice President B. C. Moore and Mr. S. R. Keyes, the energetic secretary of the organization, and to whose efforts is due in a large measure to the very pronounced success of the association during the past year. The association is composed of nearly all the leading merchants of the city.

SKILLED DAIRYMAN ARRIVES.

Expert From Denmark Takes Position at Castle Haynes Colony.

Mr. O. Beck, a skilled farmer and dairyman of Denmark, arrived yesterday at the Castle Haynes colony of the Carolina Trucking Development Company and has taken a position with the Holland Stock Farm Company, which is owned by Mr. Vogels. The company is very glad to secure the services of Mr. Beck, who is well informed and experienced on every phase of the dairying business. Dairying is carried on very extensively in Denmark and supplies a number of European countries with butter and cheese.

During the past week there arrived also a Mr. Hess, graduate of an agricultural school in Holland and recommended by the president of the school. He comes here from one of the Dakotas, where he spent some time, and will take a position with the Tidewater Power Co., to have charge of the landscape work of the company along its right-of-way on the suburban line. He will give all his time to this work. Mr. George Hedik, of New York, also arrived during the past few days. He was accompanied by his wife and three children and have gone to New Berlin colony of the Carolina Trucking Development, where they expect to locate.

Praise is due the man who makes good when conditions are bad.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bedwetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W, Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

whether in business or social life depends almost entirely upon health. Would you dominate instead of walking in the ruck? As Whitman says "Do you not see how it would serve to have eyes, blood, complexion clean and sweet, to have such a body and soul that when you enter a crowd, an atmosphere of desire and command enters with you and every one is impressed with your personality?"

THE STAR

Published by the
WILMINGTON STAR COMPANY, INC.,
Wilmington, N. C.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Wilmington, N. C., under Act of Congress, March 2nd, 1874.

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.

PUBLISHERS' ANNOUNCEMENT.

THE MORNING STAR, the oldest daily newspaper in North Carolina, is published daily except Monday, at $6 per year, $3 for six months, $1.50 for three months, 50 cents for one month, served by carriers in the city, or by mail.

THE SUNDAY STAR, by mail, one year, $1; six months, 50 cents; three months, 25 cents.

ADVERTISING RATES may be had on application, and advertisers may feel assured that through the columns of this paper they may reach all Wilmington, Eastern Carolina and contiguous territory in South Carolina.

Obitnary sketches, cards of thanks, communications espousing the cause of a private enterprise or a political candidate, and like matter, will be charged at the rate of 10 cents per line, or if paid cash in advance a half rate will be allowed. Announcements of fairs, festivals, balls, hops, picnics, society meetings, political meetings, etc., will be charged under same conditions, except so much thereof as may be of news value to readers of the paper.

Advertisements discontinued before expiration of contracts are charged transient rates for time actually published. Payment for transient advertisements must be cash in advance. Contract advertisers will not be allowed to exceed their space at same rates, or advertise anything foreign to their regular business without extra charge. Advertisements to occupy special place will be charged for according to position desired.

TELEPHONES: Business Office, No. 51; Editorial and Local rooms, No. 61. Call either, if the other doesn't answer.

COMMUNICATIONS, unless they contain important news, or discuss briefly and properly subjects of real interest, are not wanted; and if acceptable in every other way, they will invariably be rejected unless the real name of the author accompanies the same, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

One month till Christmas!

Senator LaFollette is not liked by President Taft because he wants to be President.

A hearse ran over a man in New York a few days ago, but he wasn't from Wilmington.

The people who will have the ships will fix the rates on commerce through the Panama Canal.

Congress will convene, and, as usual, Senator Heyburn will be in charge of the committee on pyrotechnics.

The kind of a Christmas present a girl should pick out for her beau is one she can use if she happens to "land" him.

Ever since the trusts have been busted, it has cost them a pile of money to find out in what particular they have been busted.

The State guarantees every man "a speedy trial", but that is exactly what many men do not want. The hope of many is in "the law's delay."

Probably Col. Roosevelt decided to keep quiet because the campaign against President Taft was being carried on just as he would do it himself.

Charlotte is to add an automobile truck to its fire department. It's a wonder that the gasolene engine has not long ago superceded the steam fire engine.

One of the best signs that Col. Roosevelt wants to be President again is that he has said something that will keep Wall Street from being afraid of him.

A New Jersey woman has married her fifth husband after having been deserted in turn by four others. That woman seems determined that she will not remain deserted.

St. Louis is going to make a fight for both the National convention which are to meet next year to nominate a President. The chairman will please recognize the fact that Baltimore has the floor.

An Englishman has married a woman who can speak twelve languages. He cannot understand a word in eleven of them, but that one will be the one in which she will give him to understand what she means.

"The South is awakening," says the Salisbury Post. Well, then let it hurry and get its eyes open to the fact that producing one thing to buy a hundred is poor economy. It is pitiful for us always to be down in the mouth on account of low priced cotton. It is our own fault.

The lamented Col. H. C. Dockery has been succeeded as editor of the Rockingham Post by his son, Mr. William E. Dockery. Mr. Dockery is making good as an editor, for the Post seems to be keeping up the splendid service inaugurated by Col. Dockery. The young man was with his lamented father in publishing the paper and it is quite evident that the Post has fallen into capable hands.

When Nebuchadnezzar ate grass he was supposed to be crazy, but if it was alfalfa he was just a little ahead of his time in discovering its adaptability as human food. One of the curiosities of the New York land show is alfalfa bread. The hay leaves are ground into a sort of flour, mixed with wheat flour in a proportion of one part of alfalfa flour to two parts of wheat flour, and then made into bread. It is said to look as well as Graham bread and be more wholesome than plain wheat bread.—Richmond Journal.

A GARDEN SPOT TOWN

Roseboro is a growing town in the Nation's Garden Spot, and the reason why it is developing into a thrifty place is that it is in the eastern portion of the fertile old county of Sampson. Roseboro is a new town, as the age of places go in this country, for it was not in existence till the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Railroad was extended from Fayetteville to Wilmington about eighteen years ago. Roseboro was one of the new stations established on the new road, which later was purchased by the Atlantic Coast Line and is now known as the Atlantic and Yadkin division of that thorough-going and enterprising Southern railroad Ssystem.

Roseboro is 61 miles from Wilmington and 22 miles from Fayetteville, but for a long time there was little upon which to base the hope that the station would ever become a town. That is not true now, for it appears that Roseboro is going to be on the next map of North Carolina. The Fayetteville Index intimates as much and The Star is glad to hear it. Our esteemed Fayetteville contemporary gives Roseboro a fine boost and we take pleasure in the glad tidings that the place is developing into a thrifty town.

The Index says: "All the time there is something doing around Roseboro, which in a very few years will be a town of 2,000 population unless all signs fail." Last Spring a disastrous fire wiped out a large portion of the business part of the village, but the frame structures which were destroyed are being rapidly replaced with handsome brick buildings. Messrs. R. P. Howell and J. M. Starling, the latter lately of Jessup, Ga., have erected a new one-story brick building 80x100 feet, with balcony effect, at a cost of $8,000. Its owners will soon occupy it with a large stock of general merchandise and farm supplies. Mr. A. R. Harris has a nice two-story building erected at a cost of $4,500, and Mr. Fred Caison has built a two-story building containing two stores. Mr. A. J. Simmons has also completed two stores, and several citizens have erected nice residences. Mr. R. P. Howell, one of Roseboro's most thrifty and enterprising men, has erected a handsome $7,000 home, with all the modern conveniences. Messrs. George Bryan and P. M. Bullard have completed comfortable homes, and Messrs. Luther Crumpler and Arch Lewis will soon complete new residences. The Baptists contemplate the erection of a handsome brick house of worship in the near future, and yet we are told that these are but a few of the many business houses and residences that have been built this year or will soon be underway.

That is pretty good for Roseboro, and it is gratifying to learn that Roseboro is going to keep on growing. Mr. Howell and the business men of Roseboro have faith in their town, and well they may have, for it is located in a fertile and healthful section that is rapidly filling up with good people. The secret of the quickening of Roseboro is that people have found out the marvelous agricultural resources of the surrounding country, just as The Star has been proclaiming it for years. The town is in the garden spot country, and as an instance of it the Fayetteville Index says:

"There has been unprecedented activity in the real estate market for miles around Roseboro in the last twelve months and land values have, in many instances, almost doubled. As an illustration: One certain body of land a few miles from Roseboro was bought last November for $12,000, on the open market. Since then it has been sold for $20,000. In the same locality $75,000 worth of land has been bought in the past year, mostly by men from Robeson county and South Carolina who are attracted by the cheapness of the rich agricultural lands in Sampson as compared with those no better in their own sections. The soils around Roseboro and all through that section are as rich as those that sell for twice as much in other sections. The difference is their values have not been known long even to the owners, who are learning the science of intensified farming."

The Star has often declared that Sampson is one of the finest counties in eastern North Carolina, just as is Cumberland, Harnett, Hoke, Bladen, Duplin, Pender, Onslow, Robeson, Columbus, Brunswick and others in the southeastern corner of the State. More thrifty people plenty of good roads and drainage is all these counties need to develop their wonderful resources. Eastern North Carolina is the 'coming" country.

GREAT EDUCATIONAL PROGRESS

One of the most gratifying evidences of progress in the United States is the widespread interest in education in every State of the Union. North Carolina has been awakened and is holding her own in school matters with any of the States. In the grand Old North State, the North Carolina University and the several colleges in the State have been generally strengthened, while several others have been founded under flattering auspices.

Not only has there been marked progress in the public schools of North Carolina, but numerous high schools have been added to the system and are rapidly becoming a part of the State's educational scheme. The latest school progress has been the establishing of farm life schools, and these promise to be wonderful factors in diffusing knowledge and giving a practical turn to enlightenment in the way of vocational education in rural communities. The farm life schools not only give promise of enlightenment to the mind but include such features as educating the hand and promoting skill. Training in these schools will be good for any boy or girl, whether they are from the country or the city. The universities and colleges will soon adopt that line of education on broader lines. Young men and young women should come from college fitted for business and equipped for the duties of life, whereas many of them come from college stuffed with books and are middle aged before they can make any practical use of their education either professionally, commercially, or vocationally.

During the last decade, greater progress has been made in education in the United States than in any previous ten years in the history of the country. We learn that gratifying fact from a recent report of the Bureau of Education of the United States, but if there were no such report one could observe it for himself in every community. The Bureau reports that during the last ten qears the annual appropriations for schools have been increased from $225,000,000 ten years ago to $425,000,000 in the last census year.

Ten years ago the value of school property in the United States was $550,000,000, compared with a present value of more than a billion dollars. There are now more than 10,000 public high schools with a corps of 40,000 teachers, the increase in both schools and teachers having practically doubled. The number of public school teachers in the United States has increased to 512,000 from 423,000 ten years ago. The gratifying statement is made that the average monthly salary has increased from $46 50 to $65 in the case of males and from $34 to $52 in the case of women teachers.

The country can boast of greater progress and justice when women teachers will be paid as much as men, or more if their ability warrants it. It is both absurd and unjust to make a difference in teachers' salaries on account of sex. Ability, efficiency and experience should be the only measure or recompense for professional and technical service. Sex should have no more to do with it than should the different sizes of men in the fixing of their salaries. Knowledge, training and skill, and not sex, nor beauty, nor size, is what we should pay for in our schools as well as in avocational lines.

CANAL HOPES OF THE SOUTH.

Southern ports and large interior cities are expecting their share of business on account of the opening of the Panama Canal in 1913, but just what the business is to be there seems to be no definite idea. Most every port anticipates that it will enlarge our trade with South American countries, but isn't it a fact that we are about as near the greater portion of that trade now as we will be when the canal is completed? Of course, the canal will place us nearer the west coast of South America and it will shorten the distance to Oriental countries, but will that benefit us if we do not make a study of the needs of the countries with which we hope to do business?

The business we should do is in the exchange of manufactured products for raw materials. South America will need some of our cotton, but it will take more of our manufactured cottons. What else can we send to our South American neighbors in exchange for their coffee and other products? Cannot manufacturing establishments be located at our ports for the manufacture of commodities from South American raw materials? South America is herself a great producer of farm products, so we will have little exchange in agricultural commodities, but we should say that our main hope will lie in machinery and manufactured lines.

Nevertheless, our ports are anticipating a great deal from the canal, because they are so close to it. A plumb line from the mouth of the Cape Fear will almost pass through the canal and touch the west coast of South America. The only South American country with which Wilmington has direct trade is west Chile, from which our fertilizer manufacturers import great cargoes of nitrate of soda. What is the matter with sending something back in the ships which will ply between Chilean ports and Wilmington?

Restrain your anger and you will steer clear of prejudice, hatred and malice.

To show how popular a Republican can make himself, there is the Hon. J. Hampton Moore, the 30-foot channel man. When a statesman gets to be constructive his usefulness outweighs his politics.

CURRENT COMMENT.

The most pleasing sight to the eye of one who journeys along through any section of Scotland county today is the remarkable number of new residences on our farms. Now, elegant and modern houses have been taking the place of the old, unsightly and uncomfortable houses on our farms with amazing rapidity. Our county has become within a few years one of beautiful and comfortable country homes. Lighting and water systems have been installed in many and every comfort and convenience that they bring are to be found. Better barns, better tenant houses, better stalls for their stock, all these have been added. We are proud of the farms and the farm homes of our county and proud of the industry and intelligence of our farmers that have made the country better and more beautiful. And we are inclined to point out this picture as a rebuke to him who growls about what the farmer has done with his money. —Laurinburg Exchange.

Next Tuesday is the day—November 28th. The place is the auditorium of the Selwyn Hotel. The meeting is to organize the Charlotte Investment Company with a capital of $500,000 for the purpose of encouraging the establishment of new industries in this town. President Kuester of the Greater Charlotte Club, has issued his call for this meeting and it is desired that every man in Charlotte who is really interested in the upbuilding of this community shall be present at this rally, whether he have money to invest or not. It will make the rich richer; it will promote the prosperity of the poor; it will make Charlotte grow every year at least for the next ten years. It is not proposed to give $500,000 to anybody, but it is the purpose of the proposed investment company to do business of the most assured character. Don't forget the date—next Tuesday, November 28th. Remember the place—the Selwyn Hotel. Consider the object—the upbuilding of Charlotte. Watch Charlotte Grow. If you can't see it, you are blind; if you can't hear it, you are deaf; if you can't feel it, you are dead.—Charlotte Observer.

HOME SAVINGS BANK

Preliminary Announcement of Opening for Business—Directors

Elsewhere in today's paper will be found the preliminary opening announcement of the Home Savings Bank, recently chartered and organized to do a savings bank business in this city. The bank will be open for business on December 1st, handsome quarters being fitted up for the institution at No. 115 North Front street, and the public is cordially invited to visit the bank on the opening day. Deposits made on that day and the following day will draw interest at 4 per cent. per annum, compounded quarterly, the first payments of interest being made March 1st.

The bank will be under the management and direction of the following well-known business men: President, Jos. Y. Yates; vice president, Jos. W. Little; cashier, J. F. Roache, who with Messrs. S. A. Schloss, J. H. Hinton, T. J. Gore, A. M. Chinnis, W. R. Sullivan, J. Haughton James, A. H. Corbett, B. A. Merritt, Dr. A. H. Harriss, E. T. Taylor, J. H. Rehder, W. E. Perdew, L. W. Moore, J. W. H. Fuchs, C. McD. Davis, S. M. Boatwright, B. F. Keith and C. VanLeuven, compose the board of directors.

"KEEPS HIS EYES OPEN"

Manager of Wilmington Shoe Company Has Holiday Suggestions

The manager of the Wilmington Shoe Company, No. 217 North Front street, certainly keeps his eyes open to the demands of the trade and the requirements of the seasons, as the advertisement of the company elsewhere in today's paper amply demonstrates. The company is just now advertising men's and ladies' house slippers which make an ideal Christmas present. As Christmas is only four weeks off, shoppers will find it quite convenient to do their shopping now while the stock is large and the opportunity for selection is not diminished. Sizes and styles are shown in profusion and a visit to the store will be appreciated. The Wilmington Shoe Co., believes that it pays to advertise" and from the series of advertisements that will appear from time to time, the public may judge of their up-to-dateness and enterprise in approaching the public.

FUNERAL AT CHURCH.

Services Yesterday in Memory of Mr. Charles Alexander.

Attended by quite a number of sympathetic friends and sorrowing relatives, the funeral of Mr. Charles Alexander, whose death occurred Thursday morning in Greensboro, were held yesterday morning at 10 o'clock from St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and from there the body was tenderly borne to Bellevue cemetery, where the interment was made. Rev. Dr. A. D. McClure, the pastor, conducted the services and special music was rendered by the church choir.

Many beautiful flowers and designs, some sent from Greensboro and others from friends here, were heaped upon the fresh mound in the cemetery, mute but loving testimonials of the regard and esteem in which Mr. Alexander had been held by so many. The pall-bearers were Messrs. D. E. Pridgen, J. J. Moore, A. L. McNorton, S. J. Davis, G. S. Boylan and W. D. Hall.

DEDICATION OF CHURCH.

Services This Afternoon at Castle Haynes Baptist Church.

With appropriate services this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, the Baptist Church at Castle Haynes will be formally dedicated to the worship of God. The church was built ten years ago and turned over to the Wilmington Baptist Association free of debt, but for some reason, has never been dedicated. Rev. Dr. J. H. Foster, pastor of the First Baptist Church, of this city, will have charge of the services and the sermon will be preached by Rev. W. G. Hall, pastor of Southside Baptist Church. It is expected that there will be a large congregation present for the service, which will be of a most interesting nature.

THE RECORDER'S COURT.

Negro Charged With Highway Robbery Held for Higher Court.

Joseph Simmons, alias "Rabbit", colored, was charged in the Recorder's court yesterday morning with highway robbery and probable cause being found he was sent over to the next term of Superior Court for lack of jurisdiction, his bond being fixed at $300, which he was unable to give. It was alleged that Simmons robbed A. Millis, an aged white man, of a sum of money to the amount of about $8, on Nixon street Thursday night.

David Anderson, colored, was found guilty of carrying a concealed weapon and was fined $25 and costs.

Earl Bowen, a 13-year-old white boy, was charged with an assault with a deadly weapon upon Charles Deil, another white lad, who alleged that Bowen shot at him with an air rifle. Owing to the youth of the defendant the State took a nol pros in the case. A number of other cases were continued.

BASKETBALL AT Y. M. C. A.

Two Games Last Night---Player Is Knocked Unconscious

The second games of the first half of the league series at the Y. M. C. A. were played in the gymnasium last night before an unusually large crowd, the place being literally packed with spectators. In the first game Team No. 1 won from Team No. 5 by score of 30 to 8 and in the second contest Team No. 4 defeated Team No. 3 to the tune of 24 to 18. R. W. Starritt, guard from Team No. 1, was knocked unconscious by contact with a post just as the whistle blew for the close of the first half of the first game. He remained in an unconscious state for about three minutes, but recovered and played through the remainder of the game. The men composing the teams are getting into first-class condition very rapidly and the games through the remainder of the season are likely to be close and exciting.

LOCAL MAN WAS MAIL CLERK

Mr. H. S. Meredith, of this City, Held at Point of Pistol While Registered Mail Was Stolen From His Car

Mr. Herman S. Meredith, of this city, a well-known railway mail clerk running on the Atlantic Coast Line between Wilmington and Columbia, S. C., was in charge of the mail coach on the A. C. L. Train No. 55, which was entered and robbed by a masked white man near Columbia Friday night about 11:25 o'clock, a short account of which was given in the telegraphic columns of The Star yesterday morning.

Mr. Meredith was held at the point of a revolver while the robber helped himself to the registered mail, taking, it is thought, in the neighborhood of $10,000 for his trouble. Mr. Meredith, who is very popular in Wilmington, as well as at all other places where he is known, was on his regular trip from Wilmington to Columbia and return and came back to the city yesterday afternoon. Soon after his arrival he was seen by a Star representative and asked about the robbery. He said that the details were about as given in yesterday morning's Columbia State, as follows:

"A masked white man robbed the mail coach on Atlantic Coast Line Train No. 55 last night about 11:25 o'clock between the block office at Royster, just south of Columbia and Lower street, the southern boundary of the city. The robber held H. S. Meredith, the mail clerk, and his negro helper, B. S. Dreher, at the point of a pistol and took possession of the registered mail. Then he pulled on the emergency brake and leaped off the train just before it reached the crossing at the corner of Whaley and Sumter streets.

"It is impossible to state the value of the registered packages gotten by the robmer, but it is believed that they are worth thousands of dollars.

"For boldness and daring, the robbery of the Atlantic Coast Line Train No. 55 within a mile of the State House equals anything in the annals of train hold-ups.

"When Train No. 55, due in Columbia from Wilmington, N. C., at 11:10 P. M., reached the block office at Royster it was running 11 minutes late. Mr. Meredith, the mail clerk had just finished putting the registered mail packages in a pouch in readiness to carry them to the mail transfer office at the union station. J. D. Minnis, the conductor of Train No. 55, got off to register at the block office and then signaled his train ahead.

"Soon after the train began to move, a masked man threw open the front door of the mail car, the second from the engine, stuck a pistol in the mail clerk's face and demanded the registers.

"'Give them to me,' he said, 'and be quick about it or your head will have a hole through it!'

"After he got possession of the pouch containing the registered mail, he sorted over the packages taking the most valuable ones and leaving a few which contained only merchandise, all the while backing toward the door by which he had entered.

"While he was preparing to make his exit, Dreher, the negro assistant to the mail clerk, moved and the robber shifted his gun on him, and demanded that he hold up his hands. Then the robber seized the cord governing the emergency brake and pulled it. In less than a minute the train, which was moving slowly, came to a stop just at the corner of Whaley and Sumter streets. As soon as it began to slacken speed the masked man jumped back, slammed the door and made off.

"Conductor Minnis was in the third car from the engine when Mr. Meredith rushed in and told him that a masked man had held up the train and taken the registered mail.

"The train pulled on into the union station, where the robbery was communicated to the police by telephone. They in turn telephoned to the penitentiary for bloodhounds, and in less than half an hour after the affair the dogs were on the spot where the robber is supposed to have leaped off the train. They failed to strike a trail.

"H. S. Meredith, of Wilmington, the mail clerk, is positive that the masked robber who held him up is a white man. He noticed his hands and his nose and eyes, which were not covered by the mask.

"The coolness and deliberation displayed by the robber suggests that he is an old hand at his trade. His knowledge of the registered mail and the emergency brake also go to prove that he was no amateur.

"He is described by those who saw him as a man of medium height, rather frail, with dark hair and probably dark eyes.

"Conductor Minnis is positive that not more than five minutes elapsed after he signaled his train ahead at Royster before Mr. Meredith came to him in the third coach and told him that he had been held up. Conductor Minnis and Mr. Meredith both stopped in Columbia.

"At 2:30 A. M. this morning the police had gotten no trace of the robber."

IN MEMORIAM

No death in our community has caused more profound sorrow and sadness and has touched the hearts of our people with greater grief than the passing away of that great beloved man of God, Rev. Jas. Carmichael. The voice of the morning called him gently away on Nov. 25th, in the 78th year of his age, to rest from his labors.

No tribute e'r so beautiful can portray his noble character and life; his life was glorified in a thousand different ways. He loved God and Nature; he loved the sunlight on the hills; he loved the glory of the skies, and above all, he loved his fellowmen. He believed in charity that would stoop and lift the burdens from the shoulders of the fallen; he believed in charity that would fill the soul with hope and awaken the world in angelic song. He was tender and sympathetic for those in trouble, and never tired making others happy. His life was spent in doing good, and bore the rich fruit for eternity, and his memory will live on and on.

DR. JAMES CARMICHAEL DEAD

Rector Emeritus of St. John's Episcopal Church Entered Into Rest Yesterday at Early Hour—Funeral Tomorow

Coming as a shocking blow to his hundreds of friends here and elsewhere and creating universal sorrow throughout the city, North Carolina and Virginia, where he was so well-known and universally beloved, the mantle of death fell on Rev. Dr. James Carmichael, rector emeritus of St. John's Episcopal church, this city, yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock, and without a pang the gentle soul passed out to meet the Master it had served so faithfully and so long.

Dr. Carmichael was in the 77th year of his age, and though for the past few months he has been in feeble health, his death was in no wise expected and it came as a great shock to members of his immediate family as well as to the whole city. He arose as usual yesterday morning and breakfasted with the family, afterwards lying down on the bed to read the morning paper, as was his custom. In a short time his wife, who was seated near, noticed the paper fall to one side as if the reader had dropped off to sleep. Ever solicitious of his comfort Mrs. Carmichael arose to place a pillow under his head and then it was that she discovered his death. Serene and peaceful indeed, had been the passing of this nobleman of God.

Few ministers, no matter of what denomination or station in life, ever come to be so universally loved and esteemed as did Dr. Carmichael. From every rank of society he drew his friends, always ready with a kind word and a smile for lowly as well as those in the higher walks of life and ever ready to minister alike to the spiritual wants of the most humble citizen as well as to the illustrious man of affairs. He was always interested in the social problems of the age and the fallen and the outcast were ever the objects of his kindly love and his earnest efforts to bring them back into the light of the Master. None sank too deep in sin to receive a warm hand-clasp and a hearty word of cheer from Dr. Carmichael and he was always ready at any hour of the dy or night to answer a call for his ministerial services. Broad and liberal in his views and striving ever to emulate the Christ, he lived and died a benefactor to humanity and of him it can truly be said that the world is a better place for his having lived in it. He was a minister in the truest sense of the word.

Seventy-seven years ago in the little town of Fredericksburg, Va., Rev. James Carmichael, D. D., was born and his early education was secured in the local schools there. He then entered the University of Virginia and after four years was graduated with honors, after which he entered the Theological Seminary of Virginia and spent two years preparing further for his life work. It was then that his studies were interrupted by the breaking out of the Civil War and feeling the call of duty, he volunteered for service in the ranks of the Confederate army. He was given the chaplainship of the 30th Virginia regiment, Infantry, and for one year he served God and the South faithfully in that capacity. He was then made the post chaplain at the Confederate Hospital at Danville, Va., and it was during the three years that he labored there that he received the wide exprience that was of such untold value to him in the years that came afterwards. He remained at this post until the close of the war, and a short time after the end of the great struggle he married Miss Lucila Wallace, also of Virginia.

Following the close of the war Dr. Carmichael and his wife moved to Louisville, Ky., and a short time later to Memphis, Tenn., where during the outbreaks of yellow fever of 1876 and 1878 his wonderful work attracted wide attention and was commented on throughout the country. His experience at the Confederate Hospital at Danville was of the greatest value to him at Memphis and hundreds of those who recovered from the disease owe their lives to him while by his spiritual ministrations and his tender and fearless attentions to their bodily needs, death was made easy to countless others who succumbed. He took a leading part in the fight against the scourge and the final stamping out of the malady was due in a large measure to his work and his advice. Becoming weakened by his strenuous labors, he himself was attacked by the disease, his case being one of the last to occur in Memphis.

After his recovery, finding that the climate of that section was not agreeing with his health, he decided to come East, which he did, locating in Maryland, where he remained one year. He then received a call to St. John's Episcopal church in this city, where for 24 years he labored efficiently and effectively for his Master. In its nature his work here was broad and sweeping and it endeared him to thousands. Three years ago, on account of advancing age, he resigned his charge. Out of their love for him and in recognition of his great work the members of his congregation bestowed upon him the highly complimentary honorary title of rector emeritus of St. John's church, which title he held until his death.

By reason of the great services rendered by him many honors were bestowed upon Dr. Carmichael by his church. He was for a number of years a member of the standing committee of the Diocese of East Carolina, a very important body, and he was also one of the examining chaplains for several years. In addition he was continuously a delegate to the general convention of the Episcopal Church until advancing age forced him to give up this active work.

Dr. Carmichael was chaplain of Cape Fear Camp No. 254, United Confederate Veterans, and always took great interest in the work of this band of survivors of the Lost Cause. He was also chaplain of the local lodge of the Order of Elks and his work in this capacity was another great delight to him. At one time he was prominently connected with the local Odd Fellows, but as old age drew nearer, feeling that he could not attend to his duties in both orders, he resigned. He was chaplain for a number of years of the 2nd regiment, North Carolina National Guard, which met in annual encampment in Summer Rest near here, until Morehead City was made the encampment ground.

Surviving Dr. Carmichael in his immediate family are his widow and one son, Mr. J. Wallace Carmichael, and two grandchildren, Mr. George Carmichael and Miss Mary Carmichael, to all of whom the heart of the community goes out in their hour of sorrow.

A pathetic feature connected with the death of Dr. Carmichael is the fact that had he lived until December 3rd he and Mrs. Carmichael would have celebrated their golden, or 50th anniversary of their wedding.

The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock from St. John's church. Rev. Wm. E. Cox, the rector, will conduct the services, assisted by Bishop Robert Strange, if he is able to attend, as well as a number of other ministers of the city. Bishop Strange has been notified and is expected to be here. Interment will be made in Oakdale cemetery.

By special request the body of Dr. Carmichael will lie in state at St. John's church tomorrow morning from 9 to 11 o'clock and any friends who wish may call and view the remains. Scores of friends called at the home, No. 806 Orange street, yesterday to extend condolences and express their sympathy for the bereaved.

As a mark of love and esteem for their beloved chaplain, members of Wilmington Lodge of Elks are officially called to assemble at their lodge room tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock for the purpose of attending the obsequies in a body.

Cape Fear Camp, United Confederate Veterans, will also attend the funeral of the Rev. James Carmichael, D. D., in a body. They are ordered to assemble at the W. L. I. armory half hour before the final hour.

MORE PETTY CRIMINAL ACTS

Negro Attempted to Snatch Purse From White Woman and Some one Robbed Mr. L. E. Thomas' Refrigerator

An un-named alley running from Second to Third streets between Chesnut and Grace and the section in that immediate neighborhood was the scene last night about 8 o'clock of considerable excitement when an unknown negro made an attempt to snatch a purse from the hand of Mrs. W. E. Powell as she was returning to her home, No. 212 Walnut street, and a little later the same person or some other person unknown forced a lattice door to Mr. L. E. Thomas' back porch and stole from his refrigerator about five pounds of butter and three dressed chickens.

Accompanied by her little son, Mrs. Powell was on her way home from a trip downtown when a negro whom she could only describe as weighing apparently about 140 pounds and wearing a light-colored cap approached her from the other side of the street. As he came alongside Mrs. Powell he snatched at the handbag or purse which she was carrying in her hand, and which contained a considerable sum of money. Mrs. Powell had a firm grip on the purse and she held on, the negro pulling at the handle with one hand and placing the other against her shoulder to shove her backwards. The courageous woman held on and both she and her small son screamed for help. At this juncture the handle and top fastening of the purse came off in the negro's grasp, leaving the body in Mrs. Powell's hand. By this time the negro had become frightened and he fled, disappearing up the dark alley. Mrs. Powell anu the boy ran into Mr. L. E. Thomas' house, No. 206 Second street, and while members of Mr. Thomas' family were calming her, he telephoned the police station of the attempted purse snatching. An officer was sent to the house and he took the facts, as well as the meagre description of the man that Mrs. Powell was able to give. It was exceedingly dark in the street just at this point and she was unable to get a good view of the man's face.

Shortly after the officer had gone and while Mrs. Powell was yet in the house a member of Mr. Thomas' family made the startling discovery that the lattice door on the back porch had been forced and the refrigerator had been robbed. The police station was again notified and an officer was sent up, but he could find no trace of the person who committed the robbery.

Mr. Thomas believes that the robbery occurred during the excitement following the attempt to snatch Mrs. Powell's purse out of her hand, but he does not know whether the same man that tried to get the purse also robbed his house or whether it was another person. The police, of course, are working on the case but with no clue to go upon they have very little chance to locate the guilty party or parties.

Annual Sermon to Juniors

The annual sermon to the local councils, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, will be preached tonight at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church by the pastor, Rev. Dr. A. D. McCoure. Members of the two councils will meet at their hall at 7 P. M. and then proceed in a body to the church. An attractive musical programme has been arranged by Miss Cannie Chasten, the organist. Among the numbers will be three selections by the Acme Male Quartette composed of Messrs. W. B. Muse, W. A. McGirt, W. R. Dosher and Albert Dosher.

FOOTBALL ON THANKSGIVING

Contest on Local Gridiron to Determine Championship Between Wilmington and Raleigh High School Teams

Local football enthusiasts who will not be able to attend either the game at Richmond or Norfolk on Thanksgiving Day will be given an opportunity of witnessing a splendid substitute gridiron contest at League Park, when the Wilmington and Raleigh High School elevens will play for the championship of the State among high schools. The teams are pretty evenly matched and are in splendid form so a fine game is expected. The attendance will no doubt be the largest at any football game here in some time.

The Wilmington boys have been hard at practice for the last ten days and they are in pink of condition. With three practice games this week the coaches, Messrs. Shaw and Ruffin, expect to turn out for the game the best team that has ever represented the High School in a similar contest. The local eleven has not been defeated this year and has only been scored on one time. The Raleigh boys also have not been defeated this season and for several days have been practicing for the contest with Wilmington. The Wilmington High School Rooters' Club will be out in full force to root for the local team. It will be worth the price of admission to hear the songs and yells of the Wilmington High School to say nothing of the football game. The Raleigh boys, it is said, are somewhat heavier than the Wilmington boys, but the local boys hope to make up in speed the deficit in weight.

The probable line-up of the teams is as follows: Wilmington — Monroe, right end; Burnett, C., right tackle; Shaw or Penny, right guard; Wells, center; Herring or Fryar, left guard; Meier, left tackle; Taylor and Hashagen, left end; Hall, quarterback; Williams and Houston, half backs; Burnett, R., captain, full back; substitutes, Silverman and Smith. Raleigh—B. Crinkley, right end; Denton, right tackle; Smith, right guard; Norris, center; Robbins, left guard; Beckwith, left tackle; Batchelor, left end; Jeffrey, quarterback; Williamson and Champion, half back; Riddick, full back; substitute, Stell.

The grounds will be improved before the game Thursday and the side lines will be roped off, so as to keep the crowds back. An effort is being made to secure the Fort Caswell band to furnish music at the grounds. The game will be called at 3:30 o'clock and the Tidewater Power Company has promised a convenient schedule of cars.

SCHOOL TEACHERS OF COUNTY

Several Features of Regular Monthly Meeting Yesterday—Addresses By Ernest Bulluck and D. L. Gore

There were several interesting features of the regular monthly meeting of the New Hanover County White Teachers' Association, held at the Court House yesterday morning with the president, Prof. Washington Catlett, presiding, and all the rural teachers of the county in attendance except one, who was unavoidably detained.

Dr. Ernest Bulluck, a prominent young physician of the city, made a most instructive address on the prevention of tuberculosis and other diseases and was given close attention by the teachers, who appeared to be very much interested. Dr. Bulluck had a number of charts which he placed on the walls and which aided the teachers materially in getting a more intelligent grasp of the discourse.

Dr. Bulluck was followed by Mr. D. L. Gore, a prominent citizen of this city, who made a fine practical talk in which he made a number of suggestions which should be of value to the teachers. Mrs. M. L. Stover, a prominent member of the North Carolina Sorosis and chairman of the educational committee of the Federation of Women's Clubs, talked to the teachers with regard to general betterment of the schools and observed that it would be well for the women to have representation on the school committees. She made a very interesting talk and threw out a number of valuable suggestions to the teachers.

Prof. Catlett received report from several districts with reference to an effort to organize corn clubs and he was gratified to learn that two or three at least have already signified their intention of organizing. Programmes for North Carolina Day, which falls on December 22nd, were distributed by Prof. Catlett. The time having been taken up with other matter, the reading lesson which was to have been given by Miss Mary Hines, teacher at Wrightsville, was postponed at her request until the next meeting. Professor Catlett reminded the teachers that the Board of Education adopted a resolution that all the schools of the county may not re-open again until Monday of next week following the closing Wednesday of Thanksgiving Day. He reminded them also that this is done in order to give them an opportunity to attend the big educational meeting to be held in Raleigh the latter part of the week.

Prof. Catlett will leave Tuesday night to attend the meeting. The county superintendents will hold a meeting on Wednesday and will probably get through some time Thursday. A number of teachers from this county are expected to attend the Teachers' Assembly.

It was after 12 o'clock when the meeting adjourned, and all voted it one of the most profitable held in some time.

The Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch of Friday has the following: "A most enjoyable luncheon was given on Wednesday by Mrs. M. C. Ferebee, at her residence in North Park avenue, in honor of Mrs. E. L. Hart and Miss Maud Bulluck, of Wilmington, N. C. The table was beautifull decorated with white chrysanthemums and smilax in the center was a large pie formed by chrysanthemums, each guest picking a flower from this pie and attached to the stem was a charming gift, appropriate to the recipient. Mrs. Ferebee's guests were Miss Hart, Miss Bulluck, Mrs. Charles East, Mrs. H. R. Leonard, Mrs. W. L. Humphrey, Mrs. Thomas Smoot, Mrs. Edward Spalding, Miss Mamie Rennie and Miss Mary Blake."

MINISTERING CIRCLE TO OPEN ATTRACTIVE TEA ROOM.

The first floor of the building on North Front street, recently vacated by the Wilmington Savings & Trust Company, has been kindly turned over by the board of directors of that institution for the next several weeks to the Ministering Circle of King's Daughters for its use as a tea room.

To start this phase of their varied means of raising money, the ladies of the Circle will open the tea room on Wednesday, November 29th, by giving a luncheon which will be attractive and daintily served. And beginning that afternoon tea and hot chocolate will be served every day from 4 o'clock until 6:30. The patronage of the public is solicited.

Among other things, the members of this Circle have for the past few years assumed the responsibility of the entire support of the district nurse, and the good work thus accomplished is very far-reaching and should appeal to the entire community.

It is earnestly hoped that the public will be interested in this undertaking of the Ministering Circle, and that the attendance will be large both at the opening luncheon and at the tea room every afternoon.

MARRIAGE OF INTEREST AT BRUNSWICK, GEORGIA.

Many Wilmington friends will be interested in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Claudia Johnson and Mr. Otis O. Mills, both of this city, the event having been solemnized in Brunswick, Ga., last Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Courtland Symmes.

The bride formerly lived in Brunswick and the event was of much interest to a large number of friends in that city as well as Wilmington. Shortly after the ceremony the couple departed for Florida and Cuba on an extended bridal tour and will return to Wilmington to make their home about the 2nd of December.

It was one of the prettiest marriages of the Fall at Brunswick and the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Symmes was elaborately decorated for the occasion. The parlor presented a scene of beauty with its artistic arrangement of large chrysanthemums and Southern smilax, in keeping with the season. There were no attendants, only relatives and a few intimate friends in Brunswick being present. Dr. F. D. Thomas, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, officiated and Miss Maude Nightingale, a popular young lady of that city, played the wedding march.

Mr. Mills has resided in Wilmington for some six years, coming here from Portsmouth, Va., and is a most highly esteemed and popular young man. He has held a position in the general offices of the Coast Line for several years and through faithful attention has gained promotion. He is a valuable and capable young employe. The bride, who also made her home in this city for a number of years, is an attractive and talented young lady, who has made scores of friends here by her charming manner and sweet traits of character. They will reside at No. 105 North Fifth street. A large number of handsome and costly presents were received by the popular couple.

Following the marriage an informal reception was given by Mrs. Symmes in honor of the contracting parties and was attended by a large number of friends, who extended them the happiest felicitations.

IN DEAR OLD SOUTHPORT.

(By S. A. M.)

Strange things are happening every day, but the strangest of all, so it seems,
Is the way in which Wilmington people were "touched" when Southport awoke from her dreams.
We all know the story, of this dear little Burg that never knew sorrow nor tears,
But like dear old Rip Van Winkle of old, just slept and slept for years.
Now this is no fable, nor is it a joke, Wilmington people were "touched" when South-port awoke.
The story is simple, it happened this way, in dear old South-port, on "Rail Road Day."
The day broke glorious, grand and great, just such a day to celebrate.
The "city" folks and the "back home boys" decided to go and share the joys,
Of the simple little village folk, who had slept so long, but had not awoke.
Two very fat men who were awful wise, they'd been use to working the "city guys",
Had read the papers, saw at a glance, that this was the time when they'd have a chance
To do as the railroad, "make a haul", and "touch" the people both great and small.
And from all accounts they did succeed, for money and diamonds they had a greed.
Now the point of this story, strange to say, 'twas the "city folks touched" and not the "jay."
They took a day off to have a lark, but proved to be an easy mark.

MRS. CHAS. P. BOLLES PASSES.

Entered Into Rest Yesterday Afternoon—Funeral Tomorrow.

The community was shocked and many friends were deeply grieved to learn of the passing of Mrs. Abbie Chadbourn Bolles, the beloved wife of Dr. Chas. P. Bolles, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. H. Chadbourn, who entered into rest at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the family residence, No. 119 Nun street, after a brief illness. Besides her husband and parents she is survived by four children and one sister, Mrs. J. W. Stanley, and those so sorely bereaved have the tenderest sympathy of many friends here and elsewhere in their trying hour.

The funeral services will be held from the First Presbyterian Church tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Dr. John M. Wells, the pastor, and interment will be in Oakdale cemetery. Mrs. Bolles was a devout member of the Presbyterian Church from girlhood and hers was a most beautiful Christian life. Her sweet and kindly disposition endeared her to all within the circle of her acquaintance and her passing is mourned by hundreds.

Mr. and Mrs. Chadbourn were in New York City and a telegram was sent them late yesterday afternoon conveying to them the sad intelligence of the passing of their beloved daughter. They are expected to arrive today. Mrs. Bolles had been ill only since Friday night and her passing came altogether unexpectedly to her loved ones and friends.

Real Estate Transfers.

Deeds were filed for record yesterday as follows: J. T. Smith to Homer Arey, for $200, lot No. 7 in Block C., Wrightsville Beach extension; Jno. F. Holt and wife to William Hollis and wife, for $99, tract of land in Masonboro township, on Masonboro Sound, same being a part of Cabbage Inlet Island; J. Haughton James to Winter Park Gardens Company, for $10 and other considerations, tract in Harnett township, on Wilmington-Wrightsville macadam road, containing about 9.85 acres.

DIED.

BOLLES—Entered into rest at the family residence, No. 119 Nun street, at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, November 25th, ABBIE CHADBOURN, beloved wife of Dr. Chas. P. Bolles.

Funeral services from First Presbyterian Church Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Friends and acquaintances respectfully invited to attend.

MEETINGS CLOSE TODAY.

Last of Series of Sermons at Immanuel Presbyterian Church.

The series of meetings which have been in progress at Immanuel Presbyterian Church during the past week will come to a close with the services today. Rev. A. W. Hawks, generally known as "Sunshine" Hawks, who has conducted the services during the week, will preach at both services today, morning at 11 o'clock, and evening at 7:30 o'clock. He will doubtless be heard by large congregations at each service.

Monday night he will give his celebrated lecture, "People I Have Met," at the Boys' Brigade armory, to which the public is cordially invited to attend. It is a humorous lecture and all who attend are promised an evening of rare enjoyment. The regular price of the lecture is 50 cents and $1, but on this occasion will be 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for children, the proceeds to go to the benefit of Immanuel church.

Meeting for Boys Today.

The meeting for boys inaugurated last Sunday at the Y. M. C. A. will hold its second session at 10 o'clock this morning under the leadership of Secretary Huntington and his efficient corps of workers who are vitally interested in the welfare of the boys of the community. There will be some good music and a short talk and the meeting dismissed in time for each boy to get to church. A cordial invitation is extended to all boys under 16 in the city to attend the meeting.

Ladies' raincoats $3.98; children's rain capes $2.75; child's school umbrellas 50c., at Polvogt's. **

FOR SAVANNAH RACES.

Special Pullman from Wilmington for Occupancy of Travelers.

It was officially announced from the passenger department of the Atlantic Coast Line yesterday that on the afternoon of Wednesday, November 29th, a special Pullman car will be attached to the train leaving Wilmington at 3:15 P. M., for the benefit of all who desire to attend the Savannah Automobile races, a resume of which is published elsewhere in today's paper. This car will reach Savannah at 2:20 A. M. the following morning and those who desire to do so may leave Savannah the following midnight, reaching Wilmington on the return at 1:40 P. M. Friday. Those who desire to do so may have the same berth returning as is occupied on the going trip. The railroad fare for the round trip is only $10.80 and those who desire to remain longer may do so without extra cost.

Colored Methodists to Meet.

The 48th annual session of the North Carolina Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion church will convene in this city Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. This is the last annual conference preceding the quadrennial session of the church in Charlotte next May. One of the important features of the conference will be the election of delegates to the general conference next year at Charlotte. Dr. Geo. L. White, pastor of St. Luke's A. M. E. Zion church, in which the conference will be held, says that the delegations to the conference will aggregate about 500 men and women. This denomination has about 697,000 members not including baptized children and probationers.

LOCAL DOTS.

—The fire department was called out at 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning on account of a blaze at No. 709 house owned by Mr. E. A. Tood and occupied by Mr. Lee Justice. A spark from a chimney was the cause and the damage is estimated at $40.

—Fred Reeves, colored, was arrested late last night by Mounted Officers Frank George and A. A. Nelms for trying to break into Trixie Johnson's home on Chesnut street. The negro was under the influence of whiskey when arrested.

—At the Presbyterian Church at Phoenix Wednesday night of this week, Rev. J. D. Stone, formerly a missionary in the Holy Land, will present the life of Christ in motion pictures. Rev. J. S. Corwley, of this city, who serves the church as pastor, will be present and assist in the service. There will be a Thanksgiving offering for Barium Springs Orphanage.

Have You An Old Friend Who Drinks Too Much?

MOST of us have some old friend who needs to be saved from his one fatal weakness of inebriety. A man perhaps, whose very brilliance and rapid success were his own undoing. Who has gone from bad to worse—until your former envy has turned to pity. And people say—"he was too good a fellow"—and "he couldn't stand success."

Of course you feel sorry for your old friend. You have too much sympathy and humanity not to help "put him on his feet again" if you only knew a way. Perhaps you have talked to him and tried in vain to appeal to him. Until finally you have given up in despair.

But there is a way to put him on his feet. A way that never fails to succeed. The Keeley treatment that treats inebriety not as a moral question, but as the disease that it is. It builds up new health and takes the old appetite away. And the Keeley treatment means no humiliation, no inconvenience and no great expense.

If you persuade your friend to take the treatment now and advance him the money you will make a new man of him and he can pay you back as he earns it again. And you—you will have the solid satisfaction of helping a friend regain his old prosperity and his self-respect. Write today for booklet.

NET DECLINE IN COTTON

Offered More Freely in Interior—Prices Worked Gradually Lower Under Southern Selling—Still Deal of Picking.

New York, Nov. 25.—Reports that spot cotton was being offered more freely in the interior and rather heavier selling of futures by houses with Southern connections, inspired a renewal of local bear pressure and scattering liquidation during today's trading here, under which the market closed barely steady at a net decline of 4 to 9 points with January selling at 8.95, or within 10 points of the low record of the season.

The market opened steady at unchanged prices, to an advance of one point, which was about in line with the cables. Trading was quiet on the call, but soon became very active, and while there was a good demand on a scale down, prices worked gradually lower under Southern selling, bear pressure and liquidation, which was attributed to reports that big crop estimates were beginning to render interior holders uneasy and to private advices indicating there was still a great deal of cotton to be picked, particularly in the Carolinas. Trade interests were buyers on a scale down and the market showed a continued ability to absorb large offerings, but last prices were the lowest of the day. Reports of a more active business in Fall River, sales of print cloths for the week being estimated at 600,000 pieces, or the largest so far since the beginning of 1911, appeared to exercise little influence in the direction of stimulating demand, and the census figures on supply and distribution for the first two months of the season indicating domestic mill consumption of 776,826 bales for the period against 750,630 last year, also failed to attract any special attention. Private wires from the Southwest, claiming that low grades were being offered more freely, were probably responsible for much of the selling in connection with expectations of bearish crop estimates from New Orleans on Monday.

Receipts of cotton at the ports today 70,000 bales against 76,785 last week and 62,258 last year; for the week 475,000 against 487,761 last week and 438,567 last year. At New Orleans 13,147 bales against 5,730 last year, and at Houston 19,361 bales against 14,312 last year.

Spot cotton closed quiet, 5 points lower; middling uplands 9.40; middling gulf 9.65; sales none. Futures closed barely steady.

In all other States 1911, 74,513; 1910, 178,919.

Elsewhere 1911, 3,846,881; 1910, 2,168,285.

The statistics are in running bales, including linters, except foreign cotton and exports have been reduced to 500-bales.

Returns of cotton consumed and of stocks held at mills and in independent warehouses and public storage places were collected through canvasses by agents and by mail. The stocks shown under the classification "Elsewhere" were not secured through actual canvass, but by deduction, this quantity being the difference between the total supply and the sum of the exports and that consumed during the period and held by manufacturers and warehousemen at the close of the period.

DRY GOODS MARKET

New York, Nov. 25.—The cotton goods markets are hardening, advances being named on duck and some lines of sheetings during the day; sales of printcloths for the week were very large. Yarns are firmer and higher. Spring silks are to be shown by wholesalers and retailers on Monday. Holiday linens are being sold actively. Novelty cotton and silks are being ordered by retailers for early Spring showing.

IRREGULAR MOVES IN STOCKS

Railroad Stocks Heavy—Main Body Speculative Issue Inert—Bond Market Steady—Total Sales.

New York, Nov. 25.—The Northwestern railway stocks were heavy today and those in the Canadian group were strong. A few of the less prominent industrials advanced. The main body of speculative issues was inert with small and irregular movements. The Interstate Commerce Commission's order for lower rates on various freight classifications in the Northwest was the only direct new influence on the market. It was used with effect by the bears in attacking the stocks of the railroads concerned, and Northern Pacific, Great Northern preferred, St. Paul and Northwestern were depressed a point or more.

Expectations on the early issue of the American Tobacco securities led to increased trading in those issues at higher prices. The preferred stock rose 1 1-2 and on the curb, the common shot up 18 points to 493, the highest figure reached since the rendition of the Supreme Court decree of dissolution.

Two of the large railroad systems made their October returns today. Atchison reported earnings which were regarded as disappointing. The Southern Railroad reported an increase of nearly $350,000 in gross receipts, although the net showed a gain of less than $100,000 on account of heavier expenses.

The bond market was steady. Total sales par value $1,310,000. United States 2s and 3s lost 1-8 per cent. on call on the week. Total sales today 158,700 shares.

periods, 15 minutes each.

Harvard and Yale Fail to Score.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 25.—So powerful was the defense and so neglectful were both teams of their opportunities that Harvard and Yale walked out of the stadium this afternoon amid perfect silence without having scored a point against each other in their 32nd annual football contest.

Yale's opportunity to score came in the first three minutes of play, when a Harvard fumble gave the ball to the blue team on Harvard's 17-yard line. After rushing the ball ten yards further, Capt. Howe attempted a field goal, but the pass was so poor that Harvard easily recovered the pigskin. Only once later, at the beginning of the third period, did Yale get within 30 yards of the Harvard goal, and again Capt. Howe failed in his attempt at a field goal.

Harvard's chance came at the close of the first period, when on Yale's seven-yard line, Potter attempted a forward pass rather than push his team 10 yards to the right and try for a field goal. Twice in the latter part of the game Potter tried for field goals, only to send the ball wide.

The game was more disappointing to Harvard than to Yale, although the blue team was a decided favorite at the start. Harvard shattered the famous Minnesota shift, which Tom Shevlin brought on from the West, and which proved so effective against Princeton. Having fathomed this strongest card in the Yale list of plays, the Crimson was looked upon the logical winner at the close of the second period. But the third period saw two miserable fumbles in the Crimson back field and it was not until the final period that the Harvard offense began to assert itself. Forward passes, double passes, criss-cross runs and plunges into the Yale line by the mighty Wendell, and a cleverly played fake forward pass, kept the ball almost continually in Yale's territory. Twice, also, when the Crimson was apparently marching straight for Yale's goal, holding in the line stopped the progress to the discouragement of the Crimson stands. Lack of generalship on the part of Potter, Harvard's quarterback, and the aggressiveness of the Yale forwards kept most of the struggle between the 40-yard lines.

The Crimson always seemed to have the better of the rushing, but lacked power at the proper moment.

The most brilliant feature of the play was the magnificent defense of both rush lines. Each side seemed able to fathom the play before it started and many times runners were thrown for losses. The tackling was of the fiercest character, while Bomeisler and Smith ends of the two teams, were down on punts so fast that scarcely any were run back.

There were only two feature runs. One was a 35-yard dash by Philbin through an enormous hole in the Harvard line. Harvard's longest runs was a 17-yard dash by Smith.

Felton and Potter slightly outkicked Camp, of Yale, but the Blue had a little better average than the Crimson in rushing, due to Philbin's run.

Each team tried the forward pass five times, but only one effort was effective, while on other occasions the ball fell to the ground. Yale's most notable effort in this direction was at the beginning of the third period, when Avery hid himself on the other side of the field and then came rushing out for a long throw from Camp. The Yale end, had he caught the throw would have had a clear field to the Crimson goal line, 90 yards away—but he dropped the ball.

The game was played in ideal football weather and before the usual furclad and flag-decked crowd.

Substitutes: Harvard, Potter for Gardner; Reynolds for Campbell; Frothingham for Reynolds. Yale, Perry for Scully; Loree for Francis; Paul for Gallauer; Sheldon for Bomeister; Reilly for Camp; Freeman for Spalding; Dunn for Philbin.

Johns Hopkins Easy for Carlisle.

Baltimore, Nov. 25.—Thes Carlisle Indian football team easily defeated Johns Hopkins University eleven at Homewood field this afternoon 29 to 6. In the first three periods Carlisle swept Hopkins off its feet, but in the final stage Hopkins rallied and executed some forward passes which netted substantial gains. Hopkins' only touchdown was made in this period, on a fumble by Carlisle.

Nebraska and Michigan Tie.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 25.—Nebraska played Michigan to a 6 to 6 score this afternoon in the hardest contest ever witnessed on Nebraska field. A touchdown made by each team resulted from a fumble, but the corn huskers showed better form than Yost's men in nearly every department of the game. There were no long runs, but Nebraska was by far the greater ground gainer.

The stone wall of the Wolverines proved generally easy for Stiehm's men, while Michigan could make no headway through the Nebraska line and was forced to punt continually.

Wisconsin Failed to Score.

Marshall Field, Chicago, Nov. 25.—Chicago pulled Wisconsin out of the first place tie in the Western football conference by winning from the Badgers here today. The score was 5 to 0. A touchdown by Full Back Pierce gave Chicago the victory. Scrubby failed to make it six in his try for goal. An unyielding maroon line prevented the Wisconsin team from scoring in a situation exactly like that which profited the Chicago team not more than five minutes before the score was made. It was Wisconsin's only opportunity for a touchdown.

South Bethlehem, Pa., Nov. 25.—LaFayette defeated Lehigh 11 to 0 on Lehigh field here today. Capt. Dannehower scored a touchdown in the third period after a 40-yard run by Full Back Marshall and Right Guard Kelly secured a second touchdown in the same quarter on Half Back McCaffrey's fumble. One of the largest football crowds seen in the football field here in years, estimated at 10,000 saw the game.

Deputy Marshal Dies of Pneumonia—Ross French Not an Indian—Many Fairs in State—Other News Notes.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 25.—Deputy United States Marshal J. B. Jordan died of pneumonia at his home in Cary, this county, last night, after an illness of only a few days. He contracted his fatal sickness on a record-breaking raid of blockade distilleries in Franklin and Durham counties two weeks ago, when he and Deputy Collector K. W. Merritt cut up five big stills and captured three blockaders.

He has been in the service as deputy marshal for 12 years and was twice desperately wounded, first in New Light section by a blockader, and last, about six years ago, in an unfortunate mistaken encounter between two squads of revenue raiders. There were two raiding parties out in a dangerous section of Chatham county. They met in the darkness and each thought the other was a party of armed blockaders and exchanged shots with the result that Deputy Jordan was wounded in such manner that his life was despaired of for quite a while. It is thought that his old wounds and permanent constitutional weakness due to the wounds made him a victim to the deadly inroads of the penumonia which he would have otherwise thrown off. He was 50 years old and leaves a wife and several children. The funeral will be held Sunday.

At the Soldiers' Home last evening there passed away Sidney Salmon, aged 70 years, who came to the home seven years ago from Bear Creek, Chatham county, and was a veteran of Company G., Fortieth North Carolina Regiment, Confederate army. He was buried at the home this afternoon.

It is a notable fact that there have been held in this States this Fall 21 district and county fairs, compared with seven held during the season of 1910. Major Graham, commissioner of agriculture, has visited quite a large per cent. of the fairs this season and is enthusiastic in praise of the excellence of nearly all of them. The indications, too, are that there will be quite a large increase next year in the number of fairs compared with this season's fine record and that the standard of the fairs will advance very considerably also.

It is learned from prominent citizens of western Carolina coming to Raleigh that the Cherokee Indians in the Swain county reservation are very much put out over the fact that Ross French, electrocuted yesterday for the murder of Miss Ethel Shuler, has been published as an Indian. They insist that he was no Indian at all but a "half-breed" with negro blood predominant. The Indians feel that a great wrong has been done their tribal integrity through this error. They insist that French was never recognized at all as an Indian. It is a fact that the condemned man selected as his spiritual advisor, while in the death cell of the State's prison here, awaiting electrocution, Rev. J. E. King, rector of the negro Episcopal church.

A charter was issued today for the Board of Trade of Edenton, for the purpose of enlarging the business interests of this flourishing Eastern Carolina city. Among the incorporators are L. D. Bond, Frank Wood, J. N. Pruden. The board is without capital stock.

In the hard-fought litigation of Dr. J. J. L. McCullers against the Wake county commissioners, involving the office of county superintendent of health, Judge R. B. Peebles has taken the case under consideration and will make a ruling on Wednesday of next week. He tells the litigants that they could not have more complicated the case had they employed a half dozen Philadelphia lawyers. This is the case in which the county commissioners failed to agree on election of county physician. The board of health espoused Dr. McCullers' for the place and elected him, securing for him also an appointment to the place by Secretary W. S. Rankin, of the State Board of Health, under an act of the last Legislature authorizing such appointments when the county authorities for any reason fail to provide the health officer. The fight is over the right of the State board to force upon the county commissioners a physician they do not want and fix salary or fees that they regard excessive. In this phase of the issue every county in the State is concerned and the result in the Superior and Supreme Courts is awaited with concern.

There is a movement among the business men of Raleigh for holding a big banquet Thursday night, December 7th, as a special tribute to Jno. A. Mills, C. B., and E. B. Barbee and E. C. Duncan for their services to the city, the Raleigh & Southport, built by Jno. A. Mills, Raleigh to Fayetteville, and the Raleigh & Pamlico Sound road, built by the Barbees, Raleigh to Washington, being now important parts of the Norfolk Southern system and the projected Raleigh & Charlotte road, transferred through Mr. Duncan to the Norfolk Southern with assurances of realization of this important through line in a very short time. It is understood that the banquet shall be given with about 200 covers and in the finest style of the best hotels here.

United States Marshal Claudius Dockery has appointed Frank K. Knight as deputy field marshal to succeed J. B. Jordan, who died last night and will be buried at Cary tomorrow. Knights has been serving as posseman in revenue raids for some time and is pronounced a capital officer.

Saved Many from Death

W. L. Mock, of Mock, Ark., believes he has saved many lives in his 25 years of experience in the drug business. "What I always like to do," he writes, "is to recommend Dr. King's New Discovery for weak, sore lungs, hard colds, hoarseness, obstinate coughs, la grippe, croup, asthma or other bronchial affection, for I feel sure that a number of my neighbors are alive and well today because they took my advice to use it. I honestly believe its the best throat and lung medicine that's made." Easy to prove he's right. Get a trial bottle free, or regular 50c. or $1.00 bottle. Guaranteed by R. R. Bellamy.

THE LAST ENEMY IS DEATH.

Editor Star: In winding up your beautiful tribute to "Joe" Caldwell, you ask: "Death! What is death for Joe Caldwell? May death be but 'mere transition' from the ills of this life to the glories of another!"

As the old preacher once said, (on another subject) "There's where me and Paul differ!" In the 15th chapter, 1st Corinthians, 26th verse, Paul states positively "the last enemy that shall be destroyed is Death." and as the "land of the enemy" is a place to be dreaded, why call it "the gate to glory?" Such men as William Cullen Bryant may write such heathenish twaddle as "transition" and the chrysalis hope—the Bible comes out "flat-footed" and says the hope of the Bible is in the Resurrection only—To "live again" must be a stoppage of the first and to be able to get the second, or "another life," you cannot go again to a place without having left it once before. Is Benedict Arnold a more revered name than Washington's because for a little "transition glory," he deserted to the British instead of enduring to the end of the Revolution and reaping the reward? Nay, verily! His name is execrated even tho' a century and a quarter intervenes, and he who would exalt the last great enemy over "the way, the truth and the life" is a deserter at heart or ignorantly. This is no better than mythological "shades" and "Hiden Tale" of Virgil. Jesus was a prisoner, once, of death, but "alive forevermore" and never gloried in His conquerer for three days!

Representative A. O. Stanley

Chairman of House Steel Trust Investigation Committee —Word Picture as Drawn by "Red Buck" Bryant— Some of His Characteristics.

Washington, Nov. 25.—Representative Augustus Owsley Stanley, chairman of the special House committee to investigate the Steel Trust, has undertaken a great task. The investigation of the greatest corporation of the age is a big job. The entire country is interested.

Among those who have already testified are Former President Roosevelt, Judge Elbert H. Gary and George W. Perkins. The first and most spectacular witness, John W. Gates, is dead. Andrew Carnegie and J. Pierpont Morgan may testify this Winter.

Just before the Stanley committee recessed Mr. Stanley, in a moment of passion, threatened to take George W. Perkins before the bar of the House for refusing to answer, on the advice of his attorney, questions relating to personal contributions to campaign funds. But, Mr. Perkins escaped gracefully and quickly.

Everybody was electrified when Mr. Stanley declared in no uncertain terms that he would report Mr. Perkins, the friend and ally of J. Pierpont Morgan, to the House for contumacy and contempt. Thousands of newsboys shouted, "Paper, paper, all about the Stanley investigation sensation! Millionaire will go to jail!"

"Stanley will land George W. Perkins in prison, where he ought to be," declared enthusiastic admirers of the Kentucky statesman.

"Bully for Stanley!" shouted the mob.

"Bravo!" cried millions.

"That is going some," said radical Democrats.

But, alas, the following day the smooth, oily Mr. Perkins, the head of the International Harvester Company, slipped the Stanley noose, got away, and the chorus changed.

"Stanley backs down! Perkins laughs in his face! Lindabury, the clever attorney for the 'Steel Trust' put Stanley in the hole that Stanley dug for Perkins."

That was the way the headliners put it. From Alaska to Florida the newspapers proclaimed it.

Who is Augustus Owsley Stanley? Upon what meat does he feed? What brand of Kentucky's best does he drink? What sort of tobacco does he chew?

Is he trust buster, or ranter? Is he statesman or demagogue? Is he friend of the people or friend of Stanley?

These are some of the question Washington people ask about Mr. Stanley.

Mr. Stanley is of medium size, measuring five feet eight, and weighing 165 pounds. His hair is thin and dark, his eyes brown, and his complexion olive. He is the son of a Campbellite preacher. He seldom attends church. In his younger days he was considered wayward by the pious Stanleys and Owsleys, because his fondness for the things that made Kentucky famous led him into extravagancies.

Every man, woman and child, and many of the lower animals of Henderson, the home town of Mr. Stanley, knows him. George William, Mr. Stanley's Llewellyn setter, knows him well. The first few days after Mr. Stanley sets out from Kentucky to Washington the faithful dog roams and frets.

George William goes to Mr. Stanley's law office, but failing to find his master there, he visits the nearest grog shop.

"Not here, George William," the barkeeper announces.

The next saloon in the block is visited. "Gone, George William," declares a friend of the Congressman.

Every barroom in the town is visited before the dog is satisfied that his master has left the community.

The story of George William and his search for his popular master is one of Mr. Stanley's favorite stories on himself. One night last Summer, after telling a party of press club members of the dog and his love for him, Mr. Stanley declared: "That is a friend for you. George William never forsakes me."

Mr. Stanley is a crack shot; George William a fine hunter. The two spend much time in the field after quail together.

Mr. Stanley is a tobacco fiend. He chews and smokes. He takes the largest chew of any man in Congress. His washwoman would swear to this, for the overflow on his shirt fronts indicates that. Stogies delight him for an after-dinner smoke. At times his pockets swell with stogies. There is no more liberal person with stogies than he. Occosionally a 25 cent cigar is smoked, but the stogies gives him more pleasure, for it takes him closer to the soil.

Frog legs and Chilli Concarne are his favorite dishes. He can eat them three times a day.

As the Southerners say, Mr. Stanley is queer. Becoming engrossed in some subject he may pass his best friend on the street without seeing him. He was leading the family horse from the spring one day, when the animal shook the bridle off, stopped by the wayside to pick grass and was not missed until Mr. Stanley turned at the barnyard gate to find that he was dragging the bridle. Sometimes Mr. Stanley forgets to eat until he is almost famished or exhausted. If absorbed he may go all day without food. He lives, at times, for weeks on eggs and sherry. That is when he labors hard on a problem.

Mr. Stanley is a night; he rambles with the boys until the wee small hours. If he retires before 2 o'clock he thinks he has lost part of the day. But, as a rule, he rises at 7, and is at his office by 9.

Clothes annoy Mr. Stanley, and like him not. If he buys a $75 suit, and he frequently does, it looks on him like a hand-me-down. His coat looks as if it had been pitched upon his back. Nothing fits him very long. If he is hot he unbuttons his collars and lets his neck have the benefit of any necktie, when thrown loose, sticks to the collar, but most often it falls to the ground, or the floor, wherever Mr. Stanley happens to be. If the tie is lost Mr. Stanley gets a new one at the first store. If the shirt is blue the tie is just as apt to be pink or turkey red, for Mr. Stanley is color blind.

The Stanley hat, a soft slouch, is always odd. It runs to seed at the top.

Mr. Stanley has an aversion for standing collars, dress suits and organ grinders. The first two he leaves alone and the other he stones. No organ grinder, if he knows Mr. Stanley, ever stops on his side of the House Office building. There is nothing that makes Mr. Stanley go into the air like one of those wandering musicians.

"Where, oh, where is my hat," said Mr. Stanley, one day preparing to leave his room for the committee room.

"Feel on your head," said his stenographer.

The hat was there.

Mr. Stanley is not a man of order. He has but little method. The old Southern way of having someone wait on you sticks to Mr. Stanley. Five men and two women help him with the Steel Trust investigation. The entire National Anti-Trust League is at his beck and call. A nod of the head, or a snap of the finger will bring somebody to his side.

If there is a worn-out, good-for-nothing politician in Washington he sooner or later drifts to Mr. Stanley and fastens himself upon his generous heart. It is not unusual to see Mr. Stanley followed by an army of cast-offs, who delight to hear him quote Byron, Shakespeare and Milton, or the Bible, and have him pay for the drinks. Baron Munchausen could borrow $50 from him on a promise to return it, or be given an opportunity to testify before the steel committee.

Mr. Stanley is popular at Henderson. He is a favorite in Kentucky. During the last campaign for the Democratic nominations he was urged to run for Governor. The little daughter of his law partner wrote and begged him to enter the race. His reply to the girl was characteristic. It read: "My Dear Child: The Governor has to wear a silk hat. He must wear a frock coat, and be careful about his friends and associates. He has to keep up so much that is really worth keeping. He cannot drink whiskey or chew tobacco. I would rather be free to do what I please than be Governor."

Mr. Stanley supports three families of kinsmen. Every appeal for charity reaches his heart and pocket. He is devoted to his wife, his three small boys and his bird dogs. Flowers fascinate him. He has a passion for roses.

Mr. Stanley never killed anybody but he has been in several Kentucky feuds. He is not a gun-man but he frequently totes a pistol, and knows how to use it. He can knock the buttons from a man's coat at 20 paces He boast of being able to break nine glass balls out of ten pitched into the air. This is one of the accomplishments that he is proud of. Not long ago, in a town in his district, he was fined for carrying a concealed weapon. He threw off his coat and exposed a pistol.

Intellectually Mr. Stanley ranks well with a dozen able men of Congress. No man in the House is quicker at repartee. Much of his spare time is spent over Jefferson's books. Byron is his favorite poem. When feeling fine, when out with the boys, he will quote pages from Don Juan.

Agustus Owsley Stanley is a dreamer. His imagination runs riot at times. He chases rainbows to get the gold at the ends. Any man with a freak story can get his ear. Wild goose chasing is one of his weaknesses. That has been one trouble with the Steel Trust investigation. Big things promised never materialized.

Mr. Stanley is a star performer but not a good team worker. He tries to do too much single handed. His sentences are long and often involved. Some of his questions contain from 300 to 400 words.

Personally, Mr. Stanley is pure gold. He has loyal friends and bitter enemies. His integrity is never questioned in Kentucky. Wine, women and flattery have had much to do with shaping his life. A smart, smooth, plausible person, with a sugar-coated tongue can reach his heart, and control his head and actions.

Mr. Stanley was born at Shelbyville, Ky., May 27th, 1867. He was graduated from Center College, Danville, in 1889, and began the practice of law in 1894. For several years he taught school. The only office he ever held before coming to Congress was that of Presidential Elector in 1900.

A Southern man told us the other day that the daisy was never known in the South till after the war between the States. Now, every part of the South visited by the Union army is covered with daisies. "Sherman brought them to us," he says, "and the 'march to the sea' can be followed in the Summer time by the daisies. The seed must have been transported in the hay brought along to feed the horses. I've never heard any other explanation."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

CURE OF COLDS.

What to Do and What Not to Do for a Cold.

With the advent of our first cold weather in the Fall a great many fall early victims to "colds". Others will probably soon follow suit. During the Winter months it is one of the most common of accidents. It therefore becomes a subject of great interest and importance. The real importance and significance of colds are not as generally recognized as they should be. An ordinary cold, when promptly taken in hand, is usually cured in from two to six days, but not infrequently a "bad" cold (for there are no good colds) leaves behind it relics, the recovery from which may require months or even years. Sometimes a fatal disease finds its beginning in a neglected cold. Pneumonia, pleurisy, bronchitis and consumption itself, frequently follow in the wake of a cold.

But the average reader is interested in just two things concerning colds: First, how to avoid them, and, second, how to cure them. Concerning the first, we may protect ourselves by four lines of defense, as follows:

First. Colds are probably "catching" particularly from others, and it is therefore best to avoid intimate association such as the use of the same drinking cup and towel with people who have colds. Likewise avoid people who have recently had pneumonia, crowds, and overheated or badly ventilated places.

Second. Colds may be "caught" from ourselves, that is, we may reinfect ourselves; so that a second line of defense is to keep our own mouth, nose, throat, and tonsils clean, and avoid gorging with food or drink, particularly alcoholic drinks.

Third. While a possible germ is one factor, getting our body or any part of our body overheated or thoroughly chilled is another. Therefore, indulge in no careless exposures or permit the body to cool too rapidly when once warmed.

Fourth. Another line of defense is to build up our own physical resistance. This may be done by working and living in well-ventilated rooms and in the open air as much as possible, particularly at night; careful and regular bathing, moderate eating and daily exercise in the open air if the weather permits.

But even after we have thrown every practical safeguard about ourselves, it still sometimes happens that we take a cold, and then the question of prime importance is how to cure it in the safest way and in the least time. First of all, we should begin early and proceed with heroic efforts to remedy the thing that is causing the cold. For instance, if we get our feet wet, we should take a hot mustard foot bath at the earliest moment. This is done by adding a tablespoonful of mustard to two gallons of water as hot as we can bear it on our feet. This bath should continue for 15 to 20 minutes or until the skin is well reddened and tingling. While taking the foot bath, one should drink from one to two pints of hot water or lemonade. After the foot bath dry the feet quickly, go to be and have applied over the part in which the cold seems to have settled a towel wrung out of cold water, sufficiently dry to not drip, and cover it with several thicknesses of flannel or sheet cotton so as to keep it warm during the night. Take a purge and keep the bowels moving freely for several days by eating fruits and vegetables. Drink water freely. From two to three quarts of water in 24 hours is not too much.

If a cold does not yield readily to such treatment, take no chances, but secure medical counsel at once.

THE MOTOR TRU...

Factor in Successful Marketing of Crop in Connecticut

A convincing demonstration of the motor truck as a factor in the successful marketing of crops was given recently on the Conyers farm, which covers 1,800 acres and is located seven miles inland from Greenwich, Conn. This year's apple harvest amounted to 3,500 barrels and the peaches filled 10,000 baskets.

It was just three years ago that this farm took delivery on its three-ton Packard truck, which has traveled 30,000 miles to date. Products of the farm are hauled either to the railroad station or steamboat pier and supplies are carried on the return trips. The truck is used also in hauling from the fields and orchards to the barns. It displaces six teams.

"There is no comparison between horses and the truck as we use it," said Superintendent Drew. "The truck is dependable and its speed is a decided advantage in hauling our products. We would not under any circumstances return to the use of horses."

Because of the lively interest shown in every city where the vehicle was exhibited on its way back from San Francisco, the Packard three-ton truck, which carried a full load from coast to coast in 46 days, is now being sent out for a tour of the east to extend over several weeks. The truck is still equipped as a prairie schooner and presents the picturesque appearance which attracted crowds all along the line. Toledo, Cleveland, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Albany, Boston, Providence, Hartford, Bridgeport, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore are among the cities to be visited.

The Detroit public library has established a branch at the factory of the Packard Motor Car Company. This step was taken in consideration of the fact that more than 7,000 persons are employed there.

STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Interesting Programme for Twelfth Annual Meeting in Raleigh This Week—Some of The Speakers and The Work

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 25.—Secretary Clarence Poe, of the State Literary and Mistorical Association, today declared that the twelfth annual meeting, to be held in Raleigh Monday and Tuesday promises to be the most successful and most largely attended in the history of the association. "It seems to me," he said, "that I have never before had half so many out-of-town members to notify me of their coming."

The programme this year is an unusually attractive one and for the first time embraces two evening sessions. The addresses of Profesor E. K. Graham and Dr. C. Alphonse Smith Monday evening and the presentation of the Cup will make this session no less notable than the Tuesday evening session, when the speech of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, the distinguished historian-stateaman, will be delivered. There will also be a business session of the association Tuesday afternoon, and it is planned to have the members especially interested in history organize a historical section of the association Tuesday morning, while those especially interested in literature will probably organize a literary section of the association at the same time. To all these sessions the public is cordially invited and, in fact, the officers are anxious to have the largest possible attendance of non-members as well as members.

"What the organization has accomplished in its eleven years of activity," said Secretary Poe yesterday, "is a notable illustration of what the combined activities of a small group of people may lead to. Of course, the association does not claim credit for the achievement of all the movements that it has inaugurated but it has to its credit the initiation and, in the greater part, the successful prosecution, of at least nine projects affecting the literary and historical life of the State.

"(1) It was through its activities that Rural School Libraries were established, North Carolina becoming the leader in this important educational innovation.

"(2) The association next secured the establishment of 'North Carolina Day' in the schools, one of the most potent agencies in the dissemination of our State history and literature.

"(3) The establishment of the North Carolina Historical Commission was next successfully advocated and it is not too much to say that Secretary Connor has made this a more notable agency for good than its most enthusiastic advocates ever hoped for.

"(4) Through the liberality of Mrs. Lindsay Patterson the association in 1905 began bestowing a unique literary distinction in the annual award of the Patterson Memorial Cup.

"(5) North Carolina's Civil War claims being attacked and denounced by Judge Christian, of Virginia, the association next arranged for a thoroughgoing investigation of the matter the final report of Judge Clark and his associates completely vindicating North Carolina's claims.

"(6) In line with this work, the Association next inaugurated the movement for marking the position of the North Carolina troops in the leading battles of the war. These markers will insure to all the future a correct record of the heroism of the State's Confederate soldiers.

"(7) North Carolina never having provided a statue to fill either of its vacant niches in Statuary Hall in Washington, the association six years ago began a campaign for erecting a statute to Senator Vance in one of them. This appropriation has since been secured and Statuary Hall will no longer be without a single representative of our State.

"(8) The urgent need of a fire-proof State Library and Hall of Records for the preservation of the State's invaluable historical documents was early recognized by the association, and the appropriation finally secured from the State Legislature this year was the culmination of a long and stubborn movement, in which the association and the State Historical Commission each did its utmost.

"(9) The association has no desire, however, to live on its past. Its officers feel that each year it should undertake some task a little more worthy, if possible, than any achievement already to its credit. Just now under the efficient leadership of Dr. Edwin Mims, of the State University, it is perfecting a carefully conceived plan for lecture extension work in all the leading cities of the State. The plan in brief is to secure the services of the leading scholars in every part of North Carolina and to have each of these scholars deliver a series of three lectures on successive afternoons or evenings in some city or town where adequate co-operation is promised. It is likely that a dozen places will get the benefit of this notable service this Winter. At the meeting next Tuesday evening President Rondthaler, of Salem College, will outline the work; and it is hoped that all who are interested will get in touch with Dr. Mims, chairman of the extension committee.

The State Literary and Historical association now has several hundred members but it is the ambition of its officers to carry the number to 1,000 in 1912. Its work has been greatly hampered because of the lack of funds, the small membership fee of $1.00 for regular members being barely enough to cover the necessary expenses of running the organization, leaving but meagre funds for the active prosecution of movements in which it is interested. All North Carolinians interested in its purposes are eligible to membership and are urged to join. Those who wish to do so should send their names to Secretary Poe.

"The record of achievement already given in this article is the best index of the real purposes of the association but it may be well to quote the official language of its constitution: Here the purposes are declared to be: 'The collection, preservation, production and dissemination of our State literature and history; the encouragement of public and school libraries; the establishment of an historical museum; the inculcation of a literary spirit among our people; the correction of printed misrepresentations concerning North Carolina, and the engendering of an intelligent, healthy State pride in the rising generation.'"

The association has the distinguished line of Presidents, including Judge Clark, Judge Connor, President Poteat, Dr. C. Alphonse Smith, Hon. R. W. Winston, Governor Charles B. Aycock, Mr. W. D. Pruden, Col. Robert Bingham, Mr. Junius Davis and Judge P. D. Walker. Its present President, Professor Edward H. Graham, dean of the State University, will undoubtedly measure up to all the traditions of his predecessors in his annual address next Monday evening.

THE REASONABLE WAY.

Strong vigorous men, women and children hardly ever catch cold—it's only when your system is run down and vitality low that colds and coughs can get a foothold.

Now isn't it reasonable that the right way to cure a cough is to build up your strength again?

Mr. Patrick Wren, of N. Birmingham, Ala., knows about this. He says, "I caught a bad cold a year ago and had a bad cough for long time, but Vinol relieved it completely and built up my health. Vinol is the best medicine I ever used or heard of for coughs and colds."

This splendid cod liver and iron remedy does not smell or taste like cod liver oil, but is so delicious that children love to take it. Yet it has the strengthening value of cod liver oil, with tonic, blood-building iron.

Chronic bronchitis yields to Vinol because it builds up the system in all weakened and rundown conditions. You can get your money back any time if Vinol does not do all we say. Robt. R. Bellamy, Druggist, Wilmington, N. C.

Starts Much Trouble

If all people knew that neglect of constipation would result in severe indigestion, yellow jaundice or virulent liver trouble they would soon take Dr. King's New Life Pills, and end it. Its the only safe way. Best for biliousness, headache, dyspepsia, chills and debility. 25c. at R. R. Bellamy's.

GREAT MEETING AT RICHMOND

Review of Work of American Road Congress at Richmond, Va., During the Past Week—Expressions From Experts

(Special Star Correspondence.)

New York, Nov. 25.—Never since the beginning of National interest in good roads has so large a number of automobiles, State and government officials, highway commissioners and engineers been gathered together in America to discuss the different phases of highway improvement as was seen last week in Richmond, Va., during the four days of the first American Road Congress.

President Taft struck the key-note that was echoed through all of the addresses by stating in his message to the delegates that the development of good roads is one of the most valuable assets of the country and of great value to the public.

The first American Congress was held under the auspices of the American Association for Highway Improvement which was organized a year ago. One of the most successful features of the Congress was "Road Users' Day" under the auspices of the Touring Club of America. The programme for Road Users' Day was under the personal direction of Secretary F. H. Elliott, of the Touring Club, and brought out the opinions of well-known motorists including representatives of many of the large automobile manufacturing plants as well as some of the leading traffic experts of the country.

Hugh Chalmers, president of the Chalmers Motor Company, of Detroit, who was one of the leading speakers showed that not only motorists but all users of the highway are benefitted by every additional mile of good roads. "Farmers perhaps, more than any one class, benefit from good roads. They use the roads more in their business."

Mr. Chalmers' address was on the relation of the automobile industry to the good roads movement and some of the strong facts he brought out were as follows:

"It is the experience of all the countries that have built good roads that good roads benefit all people alike and that there is no single thing that a State or Nation can do which is such a sure benefit to the people as to build good roads. Every improvement that was ever accomplished in this country has to go through the three stages of agitation, education and organization. We have been going through the agitating part of this programme, and also the educating part of it, and now we are up to the organization, and it is through this organi-

INSPIRING SCENE FROM DANTE'S "INFERNO."
Sensational Attraction at the Academy of Music Three Days This Week, Commencing With Matinee Tomorrow.

THEATRICAL

The Academy of Music this week will make two big offerings. The first will be the sensational moving pictures of Dante's weird and wonderful 'Inferno," which will be staged in most elaborate manner, accompanied by a lecture and special music. This attraction, that has created quite a sensation, will be offered for three days, commencing tomorrow afternoon. There will be a daily matinee, as well as a performance every night, popular prices will prevail. The matinee will start at 3 o'clock.

Thursday the Academy will offer as a big Thanksgiving Day attraction, "The Thief," one of the most widely discussed plays, and this big attraction will be presented at matinee and night.

"Dante's Inferno."

At the Academy Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, commencing with a matinee tomorrow, and with matinees daily, will be offered Dante's "Inferno." It is the same cinematographic production which was witnessed and emphatically praised by the King of Italy and the royal household. A special musical programme has been prepared sublime in character and well adapted to the spirit of the poem. The pictures will be accompanied throughout by an explanatory lecture, and a Dante student has been engaged to direct the production and deliver the lecture.

All the incidents in the journey throughout the Inferno, told with unexampled power by the poet, are reproduced in a most life-like manner. It is one of the greatest monuments of the world's literature and the story is well-known.

Dante, when a boy at the festival of flowers and prayer, met a little girl named Beatrice. Dante was a little more than nine, Beatrice was scarcely nine. Dante's intensely poetic soul, his passion for the good, the true and the beautiful was set anre by th edeeply spiritual charm in Beatrice's face. In this love there was no alloy of sensual affection. To Dante as he grew older Beatrice became a living incarnation of womanly purity, a type in flesh and blood of the uplifting influences of womanhood. The poet saw her only a few times, and then only for brief moments after their first meeting at the festival. Beatrice accepted the tribute of Dante in the spirit in which it was offered, as a homage not for her sex, but to the virtues of her sex. It is said that she recognized his excelling genius, and urged him to leave to the world an undying memorial of his lofty ideals. Dante early felt the inspiration that came of this urging and planned to make Beatrice immortal as an embodiment of womanly perfection in the spiritual sense. To accomplish this he made her the central figure in the "Divina Commedia." In the "Divine Comedy" Dante journeys from earth into hell, through purgatory into paradise. Beatrice gives him as his guide through the Inferno a pious pagan poet of antiquity, Virgil, the writer of the immortal "Aeneid."

The opening scenes of the picture at once convince the spectators of the high artistic standard of the whole production. The wandering of Dante through the dark and gloomy forest, the appearance of the three beasts impeding his way toward the summit, his meeting with Virgil, are depicted with a vividness and loyalty to the poem which defy description. All through the country about the valley to the portals with the fatal legend, down into the circles between the Acheron and the Etyx are seen wonderfully exact reproduction of the scenes in Dante. The Stygian Lake and the adventures on its shores are marvels of pictorial art. The descent into the City of Disc after the conquest of the opposing fiends again closely follows the poem. Virgil and Dante pass through the city of Malebolge, down into the lowest circles of Judas and Lucifer, in the lake of ice. Words are quite inadequate to give an idea of the splendors of the films.

"The Thief."

A case was tried in a Massachusetts court recently which parallels the gripping story of "The Thief" the great sensation, which is announced as the Thanksgiving Day attraction, matinee and night, at the Academy of Music.

A woman who had been employed as a dressmaker was on trial for stealing certain articles of jewelry from her employer. She denied everything flatly, finally, sincerely. She looked so innocent that she was never doubted for an instant and to every question put to her she gave an answer that carried conviction. Just as she finished her testimony, her husband, who from his seat just outside the rail had been listening to his wife's story breathlessly, suddenly sprang up, whispered to the plaintiff's lawyer and asked to be put on the stand. His evidence was a confession. From his pocket he pulled out a watch, a diamond ring, and trinket after trinket, piling them on the justice's desk until the plaintiff who stood by examining them said that the only things missing were certain little pieces of ribbon and lace. He said he had been hard up, that the mill in which he worked was closed, and that he had picked up the trinkets while calling on his wife as she was sewing for the plaintiff. He was sorry, but it couldn't be helped. He was willing to pay the penalty.

The case seemed ended. There was nothing for the justice to do but impose the sentence, when suddenly the wife, who had been led back to the prisoner's pen, heard someone say that her husband confessed that he had stolen the jewelry. In a moment the mild little creature turned into a raging fury. She caught hold of the policeman and shook him. "Take me back. Take me back! He's lying. He done this just to save me. Let me go to the judge. I'll tell the truth this time. He's lying, not only because he loves me; he's afraid to let me go to jail on baby's account! He couldn't bear that she should be born in jail. I stole the ribbons on her account. That started me. I wanted to have them to run in her little nighties and chemises."

It was in just such a way that Marie Louise, in "The Thief" started to steal to please her husband.

A. & M.'S REPLY.

North Carolina College's Position in V. P. I. Matter.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

West Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 25.—At a meeting of the Athletic Council of the North Carolina College of A. & M. Arts, held on November 18th, to consider a communication received from the Athletic Council of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, it was resolved:

That the action of the V. P. I. Athletic Council is a surprise to us for the following reasons:

1. It was agreed that each institution should adopt eligibility rules which were mutually satisfactory, but not necessarily the same, and that after such adoption each institution should be the sole judge of the eligibility of its own players under its own rules. Now it appears that V. P. I. wants to qualify both teams.

2. The rules of this college do not forbid Summer baseball, except on league teams belonging to the National Association. V. P. I. agreed to this rule and even approved it. Among several other letters which admit our right to play Summer ball players on our teams we have one from Prof. S. R. Pritchard, chairman of the V. P. I. Faculty Athletic Committee, in which, after stating that he has brought the matter before the Faculty Committee on Ahletics, he says, "We are willing to accept your interpretation of the Summer ball rule as applying to your men, disqualifying only those who have signed contracts with, and played on league teams under the control of the National Association."

And Mr. Miles, in his letter of June 20th, 1911, admits that the Elizabeth City team was not in such a league.

3. During the Spring of 1910, we adopted a set of rules including our Summer ball rule, which after certain minor changes suggested by Mr. Pritchard and adopted by us, were pronounced by the V. P. I. authorities as satisfactory to them.

Under these rules we played our Thanksgiving game, and also our baseball game with V. P. I. in May, 1911.

4. We received no intimation that the V. P. I. authorities wished us to change these rules until June 20th, 1911, long after the contract with Lafayette Park for our Thanksgiving game had been signed, after our college had closed for the Summer, and after it was known to the V. P. I. authorities that three of our best football and baseball players, including the captains of both teams, had already, under our agreement, taken a step which would have disqualified them, had we changed our rules as V. P. I. suggested.

Under these circumstances, of course, we cannot consent to make these changes in our rules and have them apply to our Thanksgiving game, because V. P. I. has no right to demand it, because it is repugnant to our sense of justice, and because we would be breaking faith with our own students.

We regret exceedingly that the V. P. I. authorities have fallen into the frame of mind which their action indicates and would gladly release them from their obligation to play the game November 30th, if it were in our power to do so, but we feel in honor bound under our contract to play this game, and we have no doubt the V. P. I. authorities feel the same way.

We recognize their right, however, to arrange such games in the future as they see fit, and we will certainly not attempt to interfere.

"Is Marriage a Failure."

When we ask, "Is marriage a failure?" we might as well ask, "Is life a failure?" for marriage partakes of the imperfection of life, and, no more than life, is to be condemned for its imperfections. It is quite true that no marriages are perfectly happy, just as no lives are perfectly happy. But those who attack marriage for this reason assume that it is an institution designed to produce perfect happiness—that is to say, they assume an absurdity.—London Times.

Salt With Vegetables.

A good vegetable rule is salt with vegetables that are green, no salt in those containing starch or grown underground. Most vegetables are put on in boiling water, though some housewives make exceptions to this rule.

HOW TO TREAT
OLD SORES

The proper way—the only successful way—to treat an old sore is to destroy its source. Not by dangerous surgical operations or irritating, "drawing" plasters, but by Nature's true method of purifying the blood and filling the circulation with rich, nourishing properties; then the cure will be natural and lasting. We can easily understand how impurities in the blood will infect some weak point on our bodies, and by continually discharging impurities into it keep the place open and inflamed until a chronic ulcer is formed. Nothing then is so sure to produce a cure of these old sores as S. S. S. This medicine is Nature's perfect blood remedy, composed of the most healing and at the same time the most penetrating and blood-purifying properties. It removes every particle of impurity or morbid matter from the circulation, and assists nature in the increasing of healthful, nutritious corpuscles in the blood. S. S. S. makes pure blood, and pure blood is Nature's unfailing cure for old sores. Every sufferer with an old sore should use S. S. S., because it is the remedy they most need. Two Classics of Oiled Roadway to be Run on Georgia Course This Week—Some of the Entries.

(By Associated Press.)

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 25.—Two classics of the oiled roadway—the Vanderbilt cup and Grand Prize races—will be run here during Thanksgiving week. The former will take place on Monday and the latter on Thanksgiving Day.

The race course, which is reported to be in perfect condition, will be patrolled by State troops, and the chances of accident will thus be greatly minimized.

While there are fewer entries for the two races than had been anticipated it must be taken into consideration that this is the first time that two events of such importance have ever been held within one week.

Two races for small cars also will be run on Monday. One is for the Tiedeman Trophy and the other for the Savannah Challenge Cup.

Fourteen cars have been entered in each of the two big races, of which the Grand Prize event is considered the more important. The American cars are expected to make a good showing in the race, but it is generally conceded that the first money will be taken by one of the foreign entrants. The great Fiat factories of Italy and the famous Benz factory of Germany always are the greatest rivals for this prize and both will start three new cars.

The entries for the Grand Prize race, the horsepower and drivers, are as follows:

Fiat, 90 horse power, D. Bruce-Brown.
Fiat, 90 horsepower, Caleb S. Bragg.
Fiat, 90 horsepower, Louis Wagner.
Benz, 120 horse power, Victor Hemery.
Benz, 120 horsepower, Erwin Bergdoll.
Benz, 120 horsepower, Eddie Hearn.
Lozier, 46 horsepower, Ralph Mulford.
Abbott-Detroit, 44 horsepower, L. A. Mitchell.
Abbott-Detroit, 44 horse power, Carl A. Limberg.
Marmon, 36 horsepower, Cyrus Patschke.
Marmon, 36 horsepower, Joe Dawson.
Pope-Hartford, L. A. Disbrow.
Buick, 100 horsepower, Harry Cobe.
Buick, 100 horsepower, Chas. L. Basle.

Twenty-five times around the 17-mile course, making a total distance of 408 miles, the racers must go. The first prize is possession of the Grand Challenge Cup and $4,000 in cash; the second prize $2,000 cash and the third prize $1,000 in cash.

Following are the entries in the Vanderbilt Cup race:

Abbott-Detroit, L. A. Mitchell; Abbott-Detroit, Carl A. Limberg.
Jackson, Harry H. Cobe.
Fiat, E. H. Parker.
Fiat, D. Bruce-Brown.
Fiat, Joe Matson.
Lozier, Harry Grant.
Lozier, Ralph Mulford.
Mercedes, Spen. E. Wishart.
Mercer, Hughie Hughes.
Marmon, Joe Dawson.
Mercedes, Ralph DePalma.
Pope-Hartford, L. A. Disbrow.

Seventeen times around the course, making a distance of 289 miles, the 14 cars will race for the Vanderbilt cup and $2,000 in cash. A second prize of $500 and a third prize of $250 also have been offered.

The Tiedeman Trophy race is 10 laps, approximating 170 miles for the trophy and $1,000 cash and second and third prizes of $250 and $125, respectively.

The Savannah Challenge Trophy race is 13 laps, an approximate distance of 221 miles for the trophy and $1,000 cash. Second and third prizes of $250 and $125 respectively.

Entries in these races are as follows, with piston displacement of each.

Tiedeman Trophy.

Abbott-Detroit, 227, H. L. Hartman.
Abbott-Detroit, 227, Mortimer Roberts.
E. M. F. "30", 226, Robert Evans.
E. M. F. "30", 226, Frank Witt.
E. M. F. "30", 226, Jack Tower.

Savannah Challenge Trophy.

Case, 300.7, J. D. McNay.
Case, 300.7, not announced.
Mercer, 300.6, Hughie Hughes.
Mercer, 300.6, W. F. Barnes, Jr.
Mercer, 300.6, Billy Knipper.
Marmon, 299, Joe Nikront.
Marmon, 299, Cyrus Patschke.

The small car races on the first day will start at daybreak and the Vanderbilt Cup race will start when these events are concluded, probably about 9:30 o'clock in the morning. The Grand Prize race will start at 9 o'clock on the morning of Thanksgiving Day.

The automobile course, which has a world-wide reputation, has been cut out of the public roads of Chatham county and has been put in condition by convict labor. Because of the fact that the county authorities consent to the use of the convicts for this class of work the cost of putting the course in condition is much less than it would be if the work had to be paid for by contract labor. The course is shorter this year than before, having been reduced in length to 17.14 miles and has been greatly improved, compared to its condition of a year ago. The banked turns which furnished so many thrills to both spectators and contestants two years since and which were eliminated last year at the request largely of the drivers, have been restored and it is expected they will add much to the excitement of the four events. The drivers who have been over the course in preliminary practice have learned to negotiate these turns in remarkably short time and with very spectacular effect. The course has been thoroughly oiled and has been pronounced as nearly perfect as an outdoor course can be. There is not a hill over its entire distance and there are frequent stretches of several miles where it is as straight as an arrow. It is built of gravel well rolled and packed and treated with a liberal supply of crude oil. It is now a black streak of a resilient nature over which the speed kings of the world are expected to make time that will hang up new records in the automobile racing world.

All of those races are to be run under the auspices of the Automobile Club of America and the rules, well known to auto makers and those interested in the sport, which usually apply to events of this kind have been provided for this carnival. The officials of the Automobile Club of America, who are to have charge of the different events are already on the ground and starter Fred Wagner, who has seen the cars get away in all the big racing contests of the country, is here to attend to his duties in that connection. The Savannah Automobile Club has had charge of all the preparatory work at home. Mr. Harvey Granger, the president of the club, has been the active head of the organization attending to the many details and he has been ably assisted by Mr. Arthur W. Solomons, secretary of the club, and others, including Mayor George W. Tiedeman and A. B. Moore, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners.

The drivers who are to pilot the cars in the big events are the best known auto engineers in the world. David Bruce-Brown, who is to guide a Fiat car in both the Vanderbilt Cup race and the Grand Prize race, was the winner of the latter event last year at Savannah. In the Vanderbilt Cup race he will have among other contestants Harry Grant, who has twice won this classic event on Long Island, and who is to try to win it this year for the third time. Ralph Mulford, in his Lozier, and Ralph DePalma, in his Mercedes, are among the strongest contestants in the Vanderbilt race and in the Grand Prize race. Louis Wagner, who has come near winning it twice, Bruce-Brown, Joe Dawson and Eddie Hearn are considered as foemen worthy the steel of any driver in any country.

RED CROSS SEALS

"A million for tuberculosis from Red Cross seals" is the aim of the National Association this year. That is hardly more than one seal for every man, woman and child in the United States. Last year 25,000,000 were sold. This year, everything is in favor of a huge sale and all prospects point toward 100,000,000 before New Year's Day, 1911.

In order that this large number of Red Cross seals may be sold, however, the co-operation of all sorts of groups of people has been and is being asked. Women's clubs have joined hands with regular anti-tuberculosis societies and committees, while lodges, labor unions, civic and social bodies of all kinds have offered to help. Department stores and merchants associations are doing all that they can to push the sale of Christmas seals, and newspapers are most liberal in the amount of space they are giving for the description and free advertisement of the campaign. The large National magazines, too, are granting free space for the advertising of the sale, while many corporations, banks, and other business concerns have bought thousands of seals and are helping in every way. The school boys and girls are selling seals in many parts of the country. There is, therefore, a chance for everybody both to sell and to buy Red Cross Seals. Every penny added helps toward a million and it is only by these little additions that the big sum will be realized.

A pathetic incident is told of a little newsboy who entered a suburban drug store, where the bright red crosses were used on the door as a sign for the Red Cross Seal sale.

Somewhat diffidently he approached the clerk and said, "Aw, say Mister, have you got any of them stickers I see on the door? Them with the crosses on them?" "Why yes," answered the clerk. "What do you want with them? Got many Christmas things to send off, or many letters you'd like to seal with them?"

Sadly the little boy shook his head. "No, no letters and no Santa Claus packages. We ain't had no Christmas at my house since my daddy went away, and I can't write much, no way. But, say, Mister, will them stickers go to cure consumption? Somebody told me they do and what can I get just one for?" The sooty little hand reached for his pocket. "I want one to cure my mamma; she's got consumption."

What is a million for the prevention of tuberculosis when you know that hundreds of thousands of little boys and girls are homeless and friendless tonight because of the grim plague, consumption! What are a few dollars, when nearly one-half the children in our orphan asylums and homes for juvenile dependents are there because one or both of their parents are sick or dead with tuberculosis? A million for tuberculosis is but a beginning of what should be spent, and it is only an infinitesimal part of the many lives and suffering, figured in dollars and cents that could be saved.

The Useful Brush.

In good housekeeping a collection of brushes is found to be indispensable. A large brush made of fiber, for cleaning the sink; a small painter's brush for greasing pans and griddles; a small scrubbing brush for cleaning potatoes and other vegetables, and a flat brush with a narrow back and long flexible bristles for slipping behind radiators to dislodge the dust; a small camel's hair water color brush is also fine to dip in melted chocolate or colored icing for decorating cake.

Beggar's Strange Collection.

A quaint kit was that of a tramp who was charged at Kingston (Ireland) recently with begging. When searched he was found to have sixty-one lead pencils, four pairs of spectacles, two knives, three linen collars, three boxes of matches, a kit-bag, a looking-glass, a boot brush, two pairs of laces, a magnifying glass, a pipe and four-pence-halfpenny.

zation and similar organizations that we hope finally to accomplish the thing we want.

"Much criticism is heard regarding the wear and tear which automobiles give to the improved roads and sometimes we hear of complaints against the use of roads by motor cars. It is a fact and not a theory we are facing—the automobile is here—we cannot keep it off the roads; therefore, it will be necessary to build roads which motor vehicles will not destroy and road engineers must look further ahead than merely the coming year or two. Before very long I believe the big commercial trucks and heavier vehicles of that sort will be in general use and it will be necessary to have roads which will withstand the wear and tear these big vehicles will cause.

"The United States has the worst roads of any civilized country. The cost of hauling over country is 25c. a ton to the mile. In European countries it is less than 10c. a mile. Despite the bad roads it is well to remember that we have learned how to build automobiles so they may stand the pounding on any kind of road and will get through places impassable to all other vehicles."

Major Richard Sylvester, superintendent Metropolitan Police, District of Columbia, in his address on "Traffic Rules and Regulations," paid a high compliment to the traffic regulations which have been worked out by the New York police department stating that the success in New York had led other municipalities to adopt similar plans. In this connection, he said:

"The action of the New York authorities prompted renewed activity on the part of other municipalities in the matter of systematic conduct of moving vehicles, and Washington, St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, Louisville and cities of lesser population were forward in making endeavor to improve upon inferior methods. Not only were modern rules for the road authorized and the police and the public informed in accordance with them, but specially selected members of the police forces were assigned to these important duties."

Sidney S. Gorham, chairman of the Legislative committee of the Chicago Automobile Club, in explaining the Illinois Motor Vehicle Law gave an interesting resume of the growth of motor legislation. He said:

"At first, the right of local self-government was strenuously asserted, but the confusion from the use of number plates issnued by multitude fo cities and villages, and the activities of the unscrupulous speed trap operators, who were actuated solely by mercenary motives, and whose suppression could best be accomplished by the adoption of a State law fixing uniform speed limits and prohibiting the adoption of local ordinances, gradually led to a change of opinion on the part of the public and the members of the legislative bodies throughout the country and resulted in the enactment in most of the States of statutes requiring the registration of cars in the office of the Secretary of State fixing uniform speed limits, and prohibiting the enforcement of local ordinances.

"In perhaps no other State do the motorists directly contribute so large a to the funds provided for road improvement as in Illinois. Not only is the motorist required by our laws to pay a personal property tax on his car in addition to the registration fee varying from $4.00 to $10.00, depending upon the horse-power of the car registered, but he is also required by many of the cities and villages to pay a wheel tax of from $1.00 to $20.00 per year before he shall be permitted to drive his car within the limits of such municipalities."

Hint to Housewives.

A helpful hint to housekeepers, from the Manhattan (Kan.) Mercury: "Charlemagne is said to have had a tablecloth made of asbestos and used to clean it by throwing it into the fire to consume the dirt. The best asbestos has a fine silky fiber and can be spun in a thread that runs as high as 225 yards to the ounce. Why not buy asbestos clothing and do away with family washing?"

Probably the Only Man.

Jones—"I say, I heard an awfully funny thing the other day." (Proceeds to recite mild and mildewed chestnut at great length.) Jim—"Ah! That reminds me of a man I once met in Nyasaland." Jones (without interest)—"What about him?" Jim—"Oh, nothing; only he'd never heard that story of yours before."—Punch.

GARDEN SAGE DARKENS HAIR

Will Restore Color and Lustre to Faded and Gray Hair—Will Quickly Remove Dandruff, and Stop Itching Scalp.

From time immemorial, sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost everyone knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair, for curing dandruff and falling hair, and for making the hair grow.

In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready-to-use product, skillfully compounded in perfectly equipped laboratories. The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put up an ideal remedy of this sort, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

If you have dandruff, or if your hair is turning gray or coming out, don't delay, but get a bottle of this remedy today and see what a few days' treatment will do for you.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

METHODIST PROTESTANTS.

Annual Sessions Past Week at Henderson, N. C.—The Reports.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Henderson, N. C., Nov. 25.—The North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Protestant church has been in session here since Wednesday. Each session has been very interesting and well attended, with the exception of a few who are providentially detained. All members of the conference are present. A number of general agents of the church have already presented their cause; others will speak later. The regular routine business of the conference has been carried on by committees and boards, and are now making their reports. The conference has been very spiritual.

At today's session President Swain being otherwise engaged, Rev. George E. Hunt took the chair in the beginning of the session. Rev. D. A. Highfill conducted the devotional services. Dr. Tagg, of Baltimore, called the attention of the conference to the fact that it was of importance that this conference take some action in regard to the peace movement advocated by President Taft. It was arranged that a special committee be appointed to consider this matter. A motion to fix 10 o'clock of the second day of each conference as the hour of the day at which every pastor be required to hand in all official and statistical reports, caused quite a warm discussion. The character of each minister would be involved in his carrying out the requirements of this resolution. The motion was adopted.

A report regarding a plan to raise money for the Denton Orphanage created some interesting discussion. The matter was finally referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

On the arrival of the hour of the day, Dr. Tagg, of Baltimore, editor of the "Methodist Protestant", addressed the conference. Dr. Tagg has been visiting the conference for a great number of years. A conference would feel very much disappointed not to have him. Dr. Tagg referred to his many visits to the conference. He especially referred to his first visit as secretary for Missions, when the year before the whole conference had paid only $60 for missions and the following year it paid $1,250. He also referred to the fact that the North Carolina conference was the first to be organized in the denomination. He then paid some beautiful tributes to some of the deceased members of the conference he had once known and who had been pillars in the church.

The address of Dr. Tagg was followed by a most splendid address by Rev. H. L. Elderdice, D. D., president of Westminster Theological Seminary. This seminary has prepared quite a number of ministers who are in the active work of the North Carolina Conference. Dr. Elderdice is a most eloquent and forceful speaker. He was at different times in his address interrupted by applause and laughter. His subject was "The Paramount Issue," and he contended that this "Paramount issue" is "more men for the ministry." Dr. Elderdice said the great call of the church today is for the "prepared minister." He said that we should find the young man who is promising and if necessary pay for his preparation for the ministry. He said, for the church to amount to most, it is necessary for it to hear the call—"Get together Methodist Protestants."

Cover for Bathtub.

Many housekeepers spend a lot of time cleaning their bathtubs. Here is a way to make the work less strenuous: Cut a piece of unbleached muslin the size of the tub and round off the edges to fit it, a bias facing is then stitched round the cover, and through this a piece of tape is run. When the tub is not in use the cover is put on and tape drawn tightly under the edge. It is easy enough to wash, and spares an incredible lot of wear and tear on bathtub.

RELIGIOUS FORWARD.

Movement Spreading in North and South Carolina—Its Objects.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 25.—The Men and Religion Forward Movement is making wonderful strides all over North America. No division is showing greater progress in the way of preparation than North and South Carolina. Charleston is one of the headquarters cities for the international movement and the work for the Carolinas head up here. All but one of the larger cities in the two States have already decided to be auxiliary cities.

Executive Secretary Robert K. Staley's office is the local Y. M. C. A. building is being deluged with inquiries from pastors and laymen of all denominations in scores of Carolina towns. Every Charleston pastor is actively engaged in the work.

General Secretary King is out visiting cities now. The Rev. L. G. Wood, D. D., rector of St. Luke's and Rev. C. Armand Miller, D. D., pastor of St. John's Lutheran, visit Columbia and Bishopsville next Sunday. Every week this programme is repeated.

Fear is expressed here that some towns in the two States may wait for opportunity to knock twice and thus miss the opportunity to have a vital part in the greatest religious movement since the Reformation.

More than six million men are already enlisted actively in this great campaign to advance the cause of Christ and the Church. R. H. K.

NORTH CAROLINA SOROSIS

With an eye single to the many interests of the various departments of the North Carolina Sorosis, the members of this organization are deeply interested in the work done by women's clubs all over the land, and this week attention is called to the following slogan, which is a proof of the zeal with which the Woman's Club of Atlanta, Ga., has gone to work:

"We're out for a Spotless Town
Crusade,
Use a rake on your yard and lawn,
See to it that Albany is made,
As clean as a lily of the early dawn."

Then again, we turn to Ohio, and well may we learn a lesson and receive an inspiration from the following annotation from an article read by the Chairman of the Ohio Committee on Liturature:

'Every day read a little in a good book, either press or poetry, and think about it. As often as you can, look at a good picture and hear a bit of good music, the result will be a growth of intellectual beauty which neither old age nor illness can mar.'

Study the Bible as literature for at least one day next year. Since this is the Tercentenary of the King James Version and universities are emphasizing its study from a literary standpoint, outlines have been prepared covering a thorough course and may be obtained from the Chairman, Mrs. Howard Huckins, Oberlin. In a recent Outlook, Lyman Abbot said:

'The Bible is not a book but a library of sixty-six books, the earliest of which the Book of the Covenant, was written more than twelve centuries before Christ. One of the latest, the Gospel according to John, was written early in the second century after Christ, so that for more than thirteen centuries was this library in process of formation. It contains all that is best in the literature of an ancient people. In it are found history, biography, law, fiction, poetry and drama.'

Of the one hundred and eighteen clubs in the Southwest District, only twenty-five have had literary topics this year. The twentieth century calls for a most glorious type of womanhood. She must not only make this world a better place by her interest in civics but she must bring to her home a mind fresh with the best current thought. She must be to her children a companion familiar with the gems which stud the diadem of English prose and poetry.

As an incentive to great effort on our part, the following report of the 17th annual meeting of the Federated Clubs of Kentucky is given in full, for there is nothing in this world so inspiring as the seeing carried out with enthusiasm by the other clubs the good works in which we ourselves are so interested:

(By Rebecca Gordon Averill.)

The convention met in Louisville, a stronghold in the State for clubs that counts a big factor in the progress of the Commonwealth.

On Monday night, May 1st, the president, Mrs. James A. Leech, a Louisville woman, again presided for a second time over an annual conference, having been elected two years ago to office, and gave a summary of her two years' noble efforts along the lines of education, including Forestry, Waterways, Music, Art, Good Roads, Philanthropy, School, Suffrage for Woment, and last, but not least, "Good Civics"—the slogan of her administration. The president having done a great good work before her election to office of chief State executive, as president of the Louisville Outdoor Art League, was splendidly fitted to carry out this latter branch of work, and to inspire the club women throughout the State in the task of bringing Kentucky up to the front ranks in "Good Civics."

The meetings were held in the Fourth Avenue Club House, which is owned by the largest club in the State, numbering some 300 members. Announcement was made by the president, Mrs. Patty B. Semple, that the club house belonged to the delegates and visitors while in the city, and with other gracious words made all feel the hearty welcome. Suggestion was made that Mammoth Cave be made a National reservation.

During the first meeting a beautiful ceremony took place—a surprise to all—i. e., the presentation of a large silk standard flag of the National colors to the Federation, by Miss Carolyn Leech, only daughter of the president. In choice words the flag was given by the daughter and received by the mother, and on motion, it was decided that it should be kept between annual meetings by the Louisville Outdoor Art League. A cordial welcome was given the clubs by the Mayor of Louisville. The National song, "Star Spangled Banner," was sung.

On Tuesday morning, after routine business, showing a large increase of members during the year, 3,559, making in all 15,000 club women in the State, a report was given by Miss Julia Robinson, of Dubuque, Ia., acting secretary of the State Library Commission, during the absence of Miss Fanny Rawson. The Federation plumes itself upon this office created by the State after some years of effective work in Kentucky mountains and destitute regions of the State, in sending out traveling libraries and establishing County School Improvement Leagues—hence this recognition by the State, which in taking the work off the shoulders of the Federation allows the nomination of a woman on the board as paid secretary. Clubs whose chief work was libraries, reported next. Industrial and child labor report was given, and Mrs. Major mentioned the enforcement of the Compulsory Education law and the improvement of conditions generally. Miss Haldon Hardin, chairman of the Art Committee, gave an account of the traveling art galleries from other States, sent out among the clubs and the formation of one for Kentucky artists to be used in the same way and loaned to sister States. She also mentioned the encouragement of art in the public schools. In presenting a communication from the National Drama League, Mrs. Patty B. Semple made a forceful address on the subject of "A Pure Drama," which showed the high standard and metal of the speaker and the club she represented, The Louisville Woman's Club. The afternoon, before time for the automobile ride in the parks, was devoted to reports of the following committees: Press, Mrs. Woodbury; Waterways, Miss Lafon and Mrs. Harry Whiteside; Food Sanitation, Miss Hutchcraft, of Paris, who showed progress of certified milk and abattoirs through the efforts of her committee in connection with the members of the State Experiment Station, who had visited the farmers' institutes with their "Model Milkmen"; Crafts, Mrs. Dinsmore, of Berea College, who recommended that one of the rapidly disappearing arts of mountains should have representation in the State Historical Society—a coverlid, handmade, woven by native women. A member of the State society present, promised to attend to the suggestion and since then a beautiful blue and white coverlid, to be presented to the State, June 7th, a day commemorating the date of the discovery of Kentucky by Daniel Boone, has been bought. The name of this aprticular pattern being "The Missouri Trouble," as distinguished from "The King's Flower," "Double Chariot Wheel," "Democrat," and others. Mrs. Mason Maury, author of the book, "Native Trees of Kentucky"—a thousand copies of which have been distributed throughout the State by the Federation, suggested again the preservation of the great Mammoth Cave and its surrounding forests as a National reservation. Her suggestion was received with enthusiasm and plans made to buy the land and present it to the government to be developed by it, as other National Parks have been done. Mrs. Desha Breckenridge, chairman of the Legislative Committee, told of the probability of school suffrage law being passed by the next Legislature. The evening was devoted to discussion of the Lincoln Way and Good Roads, by prominent public men, and Civil Service Reform, was ably treated by Miss Laura Clay, auditor of the Federation and president of the Kentucky Equal Rights Association. A message of greeting was received from the Sons of the American Revolution, then in session in Louisville. The following reply was sent: "We, the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, send greetings to you who are commemorating, in banquet, the principles for which our forefathers stood, and add that as Kentucky women we are working for the same in our own way—the principle that 'Taxation without representation is tyranny'." The president appointed a committee of three, with Mrs. Breckenridge as chairman, to convey the message to the "Sons," who, with their wives, received them with garlands of flowers, speeches, and invitations to remain at the banquet until the "wee sma' hours."

Wednesday morning Mrs. Minor Simpson, of Lexington, reported on Literature, and Miss Hamilton, Dean of women at Kentucky University, addressed the Federation in burning words on "Moral Sanitation." The afternoon reports of the Teachers' Associations and Mothers' Clubs were discussed. Reports on Health by Mrs. Lafon Riker; Blindness, by Miss Linda Neville; Household Economics by Mrs. Martin were given, and in the evening a beautiful reception was given by the Women's Clubs of Louisville, in the club hall. Time to inspect the exhibition of pictures for Art Library and National child labor exhibit was given through and between sessions.

Thursday the education of the State was discussed by Mrs. Roark, and all rejoiced that the Federation in connection with the Rockefeller Southern Educational Fund had been able to raise a thousand dollars—as a similar sum had been promised by the secretary, Dr. Rose—to have an organizer of School Improvement Leagues throughout the State. Mrs. C. P. Weaver, of Louisville, having been appointed to this work, then spoke.

On Thursday afternoon, after the routine business, Civics, Clean-up Days, Junior Leagues were discussed, and Mr. Charles Zueblin, of Boston, stood with the president and received and addressed a band of school children who entered the hall with flags and songs. Stereopticon views were given on humane work, health and civics.

The last night, it is needless to say, that Mr. Zueblin was never so fine as in his talk on "The New Civic Spirit." to the women who he said, must continue their good work begun, as in them and their children lay the future purification of politics, civics and the welfare of the country generally.

A gavel was presented to Miss Scoville, of Posey, for having added the largest number of clubs outside her county.

The newly elected officers for the coming year were called to the platform and presented to the Federation, and a map presented to the Federation by the retiring president, who had expressed a desire to star the State with clubs, i. e., not to have a county without a club.

At a beautiful breakfast to the officers in the home of the retiring president, Mrs. Leech, all expressed the feeling of inspiration to go forward in the work for the uplift of Kentucky and later the Summer pageans given in Louisville, Frankfort and other educational centers, prove that "In God's Country," as we love to call Kentucky, God's out-of-doors brings a message to the souls of the people to work for the highest ideals, mentally, morally and spiritually.

Literature: The semi-monthly meeting of this department was held on Thursday afternoon, at the home of the chairman.

Before the programme was begun, several questions of importance were brought before the department.

"Aristotle Was the First to Call it Greece," and "Hercules likened the writing of the history of it to one of the Seven Labors" were two of the thoughts of a splendid paper by Miss Parsley, on the "Political History of Greece and the Charactertistics of Greek Life."

The character study of Pericles was given by Mrs. Bornemann, and was greatly enjoyed by the department.

Miss Morton gave a charming talk on Alexander the Great, which put all present in close touch with the great military genius.

"The Olympic Games" was the subject of a delightful sketch of this distinctive feature of the life of Ancient Greece.

The programme closed with a study of the early hymns and rhapsodists.

Civics: This department held its monthly meeting on Tuesday, and devoted the afternoon to the great work they have in hand.

Working quietly, slowly, yet steadily, it will not be many months before the good seed that is being sown will spring up and show an abundant harvest.

Gems of Thought

The Bible is a noble book, all men's Book. It is our first, oldest statement of the never-ending problem—man's destiny and God's ways with him here on earth; and all in such free-flowing outlines—grand in its sincerity, in its simplicity and it epic melody.

Christianity wants nothing so much in the world as sunny people, and the old and hungrier for love than for bread. The oil of joy is very cheap, and if you can help the poor with a garment of praise, it will be better for them than blankets.

The story is told of a young lady, a student in a university who approached President Faunce and said to him, "I am a scientific student and I want to know if you can prove to me that Jesus Christ rose from the dead?" He replied: "I think I can, but it is a great deal better to let Jesus Christ himself prove it to you; I could indicate the line of evidence that establishes the resurrection of Christ as a historical fact, but it will be far better if you will ask Jesus Christ Himself to prove to you that He lives. I advise you to study His life and to ask Him to prove it to you." The young lady went away, and several weeks elapsed before she reported the result of her experiment. At the end of that time she approached President Faunce, with a face glowing and radiant with a joy not of this world, and said, "Oh, President Faunce, Jesus answered my prayer and has proved to me Himself that He lives; and I rejoice in the power of His resurrection."

FEASIBILITY OF ACCURATE SHOOTING FROM AEROPLANE DEMONSTRATED BY UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT.

Flying at Mile-a-Minute Clip, Lieut. Fickel Throws Two Successive Shots Straight Into Target.

Underwood & Underwood

Bridgeport, Conn., was recently the scene of a most remarkable aeroplane achievement. Not only did it thrill the vast army of spectators because of the reckless daring displayed by the birdmen, but it proved beyond all question that, with the right make of rifle, a marksman can shoot while flying at tremendous speed, with the same accuracy as when on the ground.

Army officers have been anything but satisfied with the results obtained with the service rifle, and the flight was planned as a test of a repeating arm of other than government make.

The flight took place at the Lake Aerodrome before 10,000 people who paid admission and a far greater number who occupied points of vantage upon neighboring hilltops, housetops and trees.

When Beachy came upon the field, a violent wind was blowing. Undeterred, he mounted his seat and was soon soaring high above. More than once it seemed to the spectators that his frail craft must surely turn turtle and come crashing to the earth, but every time the treacherous wind threathened, clever manipulation by the aviator held the machine straight and true. After having been in the air a number of minutes, Beachy pointed his craft in the direction of the grandstand, encircled it twice and, as gracefully as a bird alights, brought it safely to the ground.

To every one present it seemed certain, in view of the dangerous antics of the wind, that no more flights would be attempted that afternoon; but to the amazement of all, Beachy, as soon as he landed, hailed Lieut. Fickel, who was standing nearby, armed with a Remington-UMC rifle, and invited him to take a seat alongside.

This Lieut. Fickel did, and aviator and passenger were soon on their way. To make the trip all the more hazardous, the machine had been shorn of all extra supports invariably carried with passengers for balance.

Time and again the big planes could be seen to tremble as if they were about to snap when contrary gusts of wind caught them; and to those below the tilting and the swaying of the monoplane were fore-runners of certain destruction to the aviator and his passenger.

When the machine reached the farther end of the field it suddenly turned, and came flying back at lightning speed. At the other end of the field, in full view of the spectators, a target had been rigged. When within firing range, Lieut. Fickel raised his rifle and sent two shots straight to the mark.

It was a wonderful performance and a fitting climax to a meet that was replete with sensational features.

In an interview after the demonstration, Lieut. Fickel said that he found the speed and accuracy of the Autoloader a distinct advantage over the service rifles he had previously used in similar tests, and that he considered it the only practical gun for use under such conditions.

How to be Certain of Curing Constipation

Prejudice is a hard thing to overcome, but where health is at stake and the opinion of thousands of reliable people differs from yours, prejudice then becomes your menace and you ought to lay it aside. This is said in the interest of people suffering from chronic constipation, and it is worthy of their attention.

In the opinion of legions of reliable American people the most stubborn constipation imaginable can be cured by a brief use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You may not have heard of it before, but do not doubt its merits on that account, or because it has not been blatantly advertised. It has sold very successfully on word of mouth recommendation. Parents are giving it to their children today who were given it by their parents, and it has been truthfully said that more druggists use it personally in their families than any other laxative.

Letters recently received from Mr. J. N. Catlett, Commerce, Ga., and Mrs. Rose Garvin, Ridgeville, S. C., are but a few of thousands showing the esteem in which Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is held. It is mild, gentle, nongriping—not violent, like salts or cathartics. It cures gradually and pleasantly, so that in time nature again does its own work without outside aid. Constipated people owe it to themselves to use this grand bowel specific.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

It's all a Mistake--

It has been said that Wilmington folks would send their money away for things they can get at home. Then, too, some one has said that a merchant couldnt do a strictly cash business in Wilmington. We are in a position to say.

It's all a Mistake--

That the first assertion is a mistake is proven most conclusively in our Art Department. The many items which, formerly could not be purchased here, are now sold here every day, saving much waiting and inconvenience. Ask almost anyone, and they will tell you they buy their Art Goods at home.

That It's a Mistake--

Is also proven every day in our

DRAPERY DEPARTMENT,
READY-TO-WEAR DEPARTMENT,
NOTION DEPARTMENT.

Will Wilmington folks pay cash? Yes, if they can get what they want at the right price, they really prefer paying cash for it. Nine months experience has proven to us that this is a fact. We know what the people want, and have it.
